RUTH ELDER STARTS FLIGHT TO PARIS; WELCOME PREPARED

Military Machines Will Meet Plane Near- ing Paris

PARIS, Oct. 28.—After spending the night on a train for Spain, Ruth Elder, American Girl transatlantic flyer, and her pilot, George Haldeman, hopped off from the Bayonne airfield for Paris at 12:55 o'clock, according to a long distance telephone message from Bayonne this afternoon.

Miss Elder and Haldeman, who had arrived at Madrid from Lisbon at 2:16 o'clock yesterday afternoon, went to Bayonne by rail last night.

They were expected to reach Le Bourget late this afternoon, although airfield officials said that fog might delay their arrival. Arrangements were made to keep beacon lights burning and to send up rockets if it is seen that a landing cannot be made until after darkness.

Several military machines were held in readiness to hop off to meet the Potez machine bearing the two Americans as soon as it neared Le Bourget.

American Consul Samuel Park, stationed at Biarritz, left this morning by automobile to meet Miss Elder at Hendaye on the Franco-Spanish frontier.

Sidney Vlet, Paris representative of the American Aeronautical Association, received word from Miss Elder that she would leave Paris on November 5, sailing aboard the Aquitania.

Plans for the entertainment of the girl flyer include a banquet by the "Vielles Tiges," with Minister of Commerce Rokanowski presiding.

Miss Elder planned to visit the tomb of the unknown soldier tomorrow, and to call upon Madame Nungesser, mother of Capt. Charles Nungesser, who lost his life while attempting a non-stop flight from Paris to New York.

SOLONS FACE FIREWORKS

CRITICISM OF BOTH DEFENSE BRANCHES STIRS WASHINGTON

Think Preparedness To Be Major Issue At Next Session

WASHINGTON, Oct. 28.—The administration has become embroiled in a row over the condition of national defense that threatens to make the coming session of congress full of fireworks, with "Coolidge economy" the target for heavy cannonading.

A swarm of inquiring letters descending upon government officials from all parts of the country, criticism from within the army and navy and demands by members of congress for facts, indicated a greater interest in the question of preparedness than at any time since the World War.

The case of Rear-Admiral Thomas P. Magruder, who was summarily deposed from his Philadelphia command for criticism of the navy and who was promptly denied a hearing by President Coolidge, promised to assume greater proportions when he comes here on November 5 "for discipline."

Administration circles were seething with discussion of the criticisms of the state of the national defense by Assistant Secretary of the Navy T. Douglas Robinson and Assistant Secretary of War Hanford MacNider. Nor was criticism of army housing conditions by Major-General Summerall, recalled from a Pacific coast speaking tour, forgotten.

Predictions were freely made by members of congress that preparedness would become a major issue, taking its place in the coming session with tax reduction and farm and flood relief.

"We should have a strong army and navy and a great air fleet," declared Sen. Pléssie, (R) of South Carolina. "This question is going to get consideration in congress, and I will oppose any attempt to 'gas' officers who tell the country the truth about conditions."

"Preparedness is bound to become one of the major questions, if not the paramount issue, before congress," said Rep. Britten, (R) of Illinois ranking member of the House Naval Affairs Committee. "The failure of the Geneva Arms Conference and the refusal of England to give us parity on the seas cannot be ignored."

Britten also said he would not allow Magruder to be "gagged."

With leaders of the "big navy" bloc demanding a five-year ship building program costing from $250,000,000 to $300,000,000 and expenditures of aviation declaring that the $150,000,000 army aviation program is inadequate, increasing pressure upon the administration's economy program became evident.

President Coolidge, by his quick refusal to over-ride the navy department in the Magruder case, indicated that he would enforce the policy restraining public protests by army and navy officers. While he let it be known that the budget would carry increases for the army and navy, preparedness advocates expect the budget to be a disappointment from their viewpoint.

Rumors that Assistant Secretary of War MacNider would be forced to resign under pressure quickened with his speech at Chattanooga, charging that the army's ammunition supply is being allowed to dwindle beyond the danger point. Friction between MacNider and his chiefs on other grounds has long been rumored in army circles.

Meanwhile, Secretary of Navy Vilbur C. Clegg had acquired a new case of dissonance with Assistant Secretary Robinson, who declared in a Navy Day speech at Philadelphia that "bureaucrats" of the department were responsible for the "mediocre condition of the navy."

Whether Chamberlin will be asked or has consented to take the place of Pilot Wilmer L. Stultz or whether the overseas flyer is to act only in an advisory capacity was not known. Stultz, however, has announced his intention of quitting the Grayson expedition owing to a disagreement between commander and pilot, and the conclusion here was that Chamberlin was to take Stultz's place at the controls of "The Dawn."

Before leaving for Boston, Mrs. Grayson admitted that she was going to keep an engagement with Chamberlin.

"Are you going to ask him to replace Pilot Stultz?" she was asked.

"I value Mr. Chamberlin's judgment very highly," she replied.

Asked if weather reports indicate good trans-oceanic flying weather, Mrs. Grayson replied: "It looks dubious for further flights this year."

"Mr. Stultz is a good pilot, I like him, but there are other things that enter the story," remarked Mrs. Grayson.

Opinion was divided here as to whether Chamberlin was to be asked to take "The Dawn" overseas, whether he was to be consulted regarding the prospects for success of another attempt to span the Atlantic, or whether Chamberlin was to be asked to recommend another pilot.

MYSTERIOUS BLAST AND FIRE THROWS CHICAGO INTO PANIC

CHICAGO, Oct. 28.—A mysterious blast followed by fire in a five-story building directly across Clark Street from the City Hall and County Building, threw downtown Chicago into a panic early today. The wrecked building stood between two theaters, the Erlanger and The Four Cohans. Both were threatened by flames. The fire did little damage as the four upper floors of the building were unoccupied. The ground floor is an Italian restaurant.

Police are checking the ruins for possible victims and to ascertain the origin of the blast. The fire started on the fourth floor. Bits of plate glass windows were thrown across the street by the blast.

WILL RETURN BARTLETT HERE TO FACE ROBBERY AFFIDAVIT

Prosecutor Will Ask Extradition Of West Virginia Suspect—Father Of Suspect Held Here Visits Him

Extradition proceedings were started Friday by Prosecutor J. Carl Marshall, preliminary to an attempt to return Roy Bartlett, 25, Clarksburg, W. Va., to Xenia from Clarksburg on a charge of robbery, in connection with the hold-up of The Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea Co. branch store, Main and West Sts., last Saturday night by two youthful bandits.

Requisition papers were prepared and turned over to Sheriff Ohmer Tate, who will go to Columbus this week to obtain the signature of Governor W. C. C. Brown. The requisition will be on the governor of West Virginia, who must honor the papers before they become valid.

Bartlett, identified as one of the bandits who held up the grocery store, is under arrest at Clarksburg. It is not known whether he will fight an attempt to return him to Xenia, but authorities intend to be prepared against such a contingency.

Xenia authorities will make the trip to Clarksburg as soon as possible. The affidavit against Bartlett charging robbery, was signed Friday by Police Chief M. E. Graham and also by J. A. Wipert, manager of the branch store, who, with his wife, were victims of the hold-up. The bandits obtained an undetermined amount of cash, gaining entrance to the store after it had been locked up for the night, on the pretext of making a purchase.

Bartlett was partially identified as one of the bandits by Wipert through a photograph found in the possession of E. H. Sayre, 26, Clarksburg, W. Va., held as a suspect in connection with the robbery.

Sayre identified Bartlett as having been his companion on an automobile tour over the country. Police originally believed the suspect's name was Sayre but he has since been identified as Bartlett.

Sayre was removed to the County Jail Friday. No charge has been placed against him but he will be held pending the return of Bartlett to Xenia.

Sayre's father, Jasper Sayre, made an unexpected trip to Xenia from Clarksburg, Thursday, and visited his son at Police Headquarters. He returned home Thursday night without making an effort to obtain his son's release, but confirmed police reports that the youth had served four years in the state penitentiary at Moundsville, W. Va. for hold-up, before being released a year ago.

CORRECT NUMBER OF MISSING UNKNOWN AS RESCUED ARRIVE

Many Injured Among Survivors—912 Now Landed

RIO JANEIRO, Oct. 28.—Dazed and horror-stricken by the frightful experience they have passed through, 912 survivors of the sunken Italian liner Principessa Mafalda have arrived in the ports of Bahia and Rio Janeiro.

The exact number of missing is still unknown, but 346 persons have not been landed, although the offices of the Navigazione Generale Italiana still claim that the death list will be far below this figure.

The Dutch steamer Alhena with 531 passengers and seamen of the Principessa Mafalda came into port early this morning and began discharging her cargo of excited and harrowed survivors, and the French steamer Formosa followed shortly with 353 others.

Both ships carried many injured survivors. Ambulances and physicians met them. The survivors were removed to hospitals, and hotels and given food and drink, for they had been nearly two days huddled and jammed aboard the overloaded rescue steamers with insufficient food.

Journalists were forbidden to interview arriving survivors but alongside the ships it was still possible to hear the moans and cries of injured and nerve-exhausted survivors. Some of the survivors were anxious to describe the terrible scenes they had witnessed.

They told of a sea of floating humanity, some people fighting for their lives as they were tossed about by the waves, whereas others had given up the battle, and their bodies, thrown hither and thither, impeded the efforts of those still alive.

One report that came from the survivors was that the first engineer had committed suicide as soon as he learned that the Mafalda was sinking.

Reports of sharks attacking the victims of the disaster, first reported in International News Service dispatches from Bahia, were repeated today by some of the passengers of the ship aboard the arriving rescue boats.

One survivor, Senor Cassek, an Argentine banker, says that the ship surgeon of the Mafalda, lost his life after he had been saved and picked up by the Formosa. He stated that the surgeon, when he remembered he had left all of his money in his cabin on the sinking ship, left the rescue ship and returned to the Mafalda to get his money and was never seen again.

DAYTON MAN KILLED WHEN AUTO STRIKES FREIGHT AT OSBORN

Jacob H. Hobstetter Is Victim—Companion Not Seriously Hurt

Jacob H. Hobstetter, 40, 9 Wisteria Drive, Dayton, vice president of the American Manufacturing Co., that city, was instantly killed about 4 o'clock Thursday afternoon when the auto he was driving crashed into an L. C. and E. traction freight on the Springfield Pike crossing, north of Osborn.

His companion, Arthur Bates, 42, Nelson Road, Vandalia, is in Miami Valley Hospital with minor lacerations and bruises about the body and is not seriously hurt.

Both men were buried clear of the automobile when it struck the traction freight train, consisting of the regular freight car and two trailers, enroute to Springfield. Marks where the tires of the automobile had skidded, showed that Hobstetter applied the brakes some distance from the crossing. The auto crashed into the freight between the second and third cars.

Coroner Frank M. Chambliss was called to the scene of the accident and viewed Hobstetter's body. Death was caused by a fractured skull and both Hobstetter's legs were severed between the knees and hips and his left hand was also severed. He received two deep cuts in his chin.

Coroner Chambliss ordered the auto occupied by the two men taken to an Osborn garage where the brakes will be tested. He was unable to get in communication with the operators of the traction freight, which proceeded to Springfield after the accident, until Friday.

Hobstetter was widely known in Dayton, where he moved twenty-two years ago from Pomeroy, O.

Machine guns, bombs and reserve ammunition will be placed on board and will be used to prevent riots.

Reserve supplies of gasoline will be carried on the planes so that no landings will be necessary. Air headquarters will be established at Pueblo.

Industrial paralysis was predicted to be in the immediate future today. Announcement made by the Colorado Fuel & Iron Company stated that one-third of their plant at Pueblo would have to be shut down for lack of coal, throwing out of work 2,000 men. It was also stated if the strike continued for any great length of time the entire plant would be run out of coal.

The announcement of the C. F. & I. is considered by officials only a forerunner of what may be a complete industrial tieup in Colorado should the strike continue.

DUVALL BEQUEATHS CHAIR BUT COUNCIL PICKS OWN CHOICE

Mayor's Oppointee Barred From Office—Litigation Looms

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Oct. 28.—Judge Joseph M. Milner of Marion County Superior Court today issued a temporary order restraining Ira M. Holmes, who was bequeathed the mayoralty of Indianapolis by John L. Duvall, from attempting to occupy the office.

A hearing on the order was scheduled for Saturday. The order makes Claude E. Negley, elected mayor by city council, mayor, at least for today.

However, Holmes was undisputed in his pursuit of the seat. Arriving at the mayor's office at 4 a. m., with Mrs. Holmes and Wayne Emmelman, whom Holmes appointed city controller, Holmes held down the mayor's seat.

When the pangs of hunger assailed him at 7:45 a. m., he retired for breakfast, first leading Mrs. Holmes to the mayor's chair as a precautionary measure.

Shortly afterwards, Negley and Frank Cones, the Negley city controller arrived and went into Duvall's private office.

But Mrs. Holmes continued to occupy the official chair.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Oct. 28.—John L. Duvall today had passed from the stage of Indianapolis municipal politics, through his resignation, while two new pretenders began an active battle to form city governments to succeed the Duvall administration.

Ira M. Holmes made the announcement early today of the resignations of Duvall and of Mrs. Duvall as city controller. According to Holmes, Duvall appointed him to the city controller position just before Duvall resigned secretly yesterday.

Claude E. Negley, president of the Common Council, was elected temporary mayor by that body last yesterday, on the ground that Duvall's conviction on charges of making pre-election promises had removed him from office.

As the result, two city governments were being formed today and were to attempt to function.

Holmes stated he would appoint Wayne Emmelman, secretary of the Marion County Republican Committee, as city controller and that a complete shakeup would take place later.

Negley who was sworn in as mayor by Miss Margaret Inman, deputy city clerk, last night, today announced appointment of Frank Cones, president of the Board of Public Works, as city controller.

Joseph L. Hogue, city controller under former Mayor Lew Shank, who preceded Duvall in office, and Walter Meyers, Democratic candidate who was defeated by Duvall, also were planning action today to gain the reins of city government.

Both claims are based on the supposition Duvall never was mayor, on account of irregularities in his election.

For the first time in Indianapolis history a woman was mayor yesterday, though only for the scratch of a pen, when Duvall resigned his wife became mayor. She immediately appointed Holmes, then tendered her resignation.

The change which gave Indianapolis two city governments came after a night replete with dramatic surprises. Friends of Negley, unaware that the mayor had resigned, spent the night seeking a superior court justice, for a writ to oust Duvall. A police squad loyal to Duvall guarded the offices in the City Hall from early yesterday afternoon against encroachment by Negley supporters, and continued on the job in support of Holmes.

However, Police Chief Claude Worley, was said to be aligned with the faction supporting Negley's claim.

Holmes, a prominent criminal attorney of Indianapolis, headed the defense staff of D. C. Stephenson, during the ex-Klan dragon's trial at Noblesville for the murder of Miss Madge Oberholtzer.

MILLIONAIRE AND WIFE REUNITED

SEATTLE, Wash., Oct. 28.—Reunited, Walter J. Hill, Montana millionaire, and his wife, Mildred Richardson Hill, former royalties beauty, were in Seattle today on their "second honeymoon."

Hill showed no disposition whatsoever to discuss his plans. In fact, he was exceedingly gruff when questioned.

"No, I don't care to see anyone," he said. "Neither do I care to talk to anyone. Life seems to be one interruption after another."

No further information was forthcoming from Hill other than the reluctant statement that he and his wife expected to remain here for several days. He let it be known, that reporters could make him happier by removing themselves far, far away from him.

COMMISSION HEARS MERCHANTS ASK TO BAR OUTSIDE BILLS

General discussion of four subjects of public interest featured the regular City Commission meeting Thursday night, but no definite action was taken on any question.

A committee from the Xenia Retail Merchants Association, composed of Thorb Charters, and David Cherry, expressed hope, on behalf of local merchants, that the commission would co-operate in any legal way in an effort to prevent the circulation of hand bills advertising outside agencies.

Commissioners are believed committed to a decision to refuse any request for a license to authorize free distribution of advertising circulars from merchants outside the city. No application for a permit has been made.

Boulevard lighting was also a topic of discussion. Commissioners understand that merchants on W. Main St. have tentatively planned to erect boulevard lights in front of their places of business at their own expense and if the plan is carried out, the example is expected to be followed by other merchants.

A suggestion that Green St. be widened to relieve traffic congestion, originally brought up at a meeting of the Kiwanis Club, was also discussed informally. City Manager S. O. Hale was instructed to investigate the advisability and expense of erecting street signs at corner intersections. Personal representatives of two firms, which sell such signs, were present at the meeting.

The signs designating city streets would be erected on an iron pole on brackets at the top. Manager Hale intends to inquire into the probable cost and obtain data on about how many signs would be needed. His figures will be presented at the next commission meeting.

It doesn't sound possible, but it's a fact, and moreover, only the bones of the ancient five stock are giving him such an education as he never expected to have.

A year ago last summer, when Morris was employed at an electric power house on Plum creek, near here, he saw some bones protruding from an eroded bank of a canyon, about 30 feet below the surface of the ground. He pointed them out to his companion James Quinn.

The first bones uncovered by the boys were those of a huge prehistoric rhinoceros. These were sold to college museums, but because they had not been properly prepared for shipment brought a comparatively low price.

Geologists visited the spot, gave the boys instructions. Then Morris visited the museum of the University of Nebraska, and told officials about the bones, offering at the same time to work in the museum to help pay part of his college expenses.

Cold Bathing

C.—Yes, cold baths are excellent for toning up the skin and improving the circulation—therefore the health—if the reaction is good. If you do not react well, you might just rub your body with a towel dipped in cold water, or splash your chest and shoulders with it. In taking cold baths or showers, you must be careful to see that the room is warm, and your body, too. Do not stay under the cold shower too long. Rub yourself vigorously afterwards. (This gives you some good general exercise, too.)

Don't slip in the tub and break a couple of ribs. I had that unholly little accident once. My word! I can't imagine anything worse than a broken rib. If you didn't have to breathe, it wouldn't be so bad. The Importance of Calcium in Diet. We know that calcium (lime) is an element of fundamental importance for the body and that it plays a major role in bone and teeth formation. It is also highly important for the blood and tissues.

The American diet is usually deficient in this necessary element. However, even though plenty of calcium-bearing foods are eaten, the calcium may not be absorbed properly unless the diet contains sufficient vitamins and other minerals. So don't think that you are getting enough calcium by simply adding milk (which is very high in this element) to a diet which is deficient in greens and other vegetables and fruits, and unbalanced otherwise. The fact that sometimes children who are getting plenty of milk with its high supply of calcium will still develop rickets shows that other factors are necessary to cause the proper absorption of it. (Sunlight is very important, and cod liver oil.)

Milk contains more calcium than any other food. (Children should have at least three glasses, and adults two.) Other foods high in this element are: cheese (very high, for it is concentrated milk), egg yolks, almonds. Most fruits and vegetables are also fairly rich in calcium.

How Soon Is Fat Deposited as Fat In the Body?

Just as soon as it is digested—within a few hours—depending upon the rate of digestion of the foods. Now when this fat is deposited, a part is burned for energy needs, a part may be transformed to form part of cell membranes. AND, if there is any excess after this, it is going to be stored as fat itself, and if you have any excess fat in the tissues already—Woe is you. (And all other foods in excess of the needs will also be deposited as fat—excess starches and sugars especially.)

The fat gained from excess food

requires a lot of water in its making, so the excess weight gained may be three or four times the amount of the food!

Paraffin for Wrinkles

Miss J.—No, it is extremely unwise and even dangerous to have injections of paraffin into the skin under your eyes, to fill out your wrinkles. The paraffin may form various sized and shaped lumps and may even cause cancer in later life. Paraffin has been discarded long ago for this purpose because of its danger.

If your skin is so bad that it disfigures you, go to see a surgeon skilled in plastic surgery and get his advice. If you do not know of any in your town, ring up your County Medical Society.

You'll be glad to know about "Loreco 88," the motor fuel that begins to vaporize perfectly at a temperature more than 40 degrees lower than that called for in specifications for ordinary gasolines.

By careful development of intricate refining processes,

Loreco Motor Oil, a worthy companion for "Loreco 88," is a zero cold test motor lubricant that adds to the safety and comfort of winter driving. Pours freely at zero temperature, thus insuring perfect lubrication as soon as your motor starts.

"Loreco 88," so named because of its initial boiling point of 88 degrees, gives you the unusual combination of instant starting in cold weather, perfectly controlled combustion under high temperatures after your machine is under way, and an abundance of power and mileage.

All the elements of a really fine motor fuel that have made Loreco Gasoline famous are retained in "Loreco 88," a perfectly balanced fuel that forms a dry vapor in the combustion chambers of your motor and has the additional advantage of quick, easy starting in coldest weather.

No increase in price over ordinary gasoline.

RECEPTION TENDERED
REV. AND MRS. WASHBURN

Cordial greetings were extended to the new pastor, the Rev. L. A. Washburn and his wife, by the members of Trinity M. E. Church at the annual congregational dinner held in the church parlors Thursday evening at 6:30 o'clock. A delicious menu was served at long tables which were laid in the Sunday School room.

Preceding the dinner hour and while the meal was served delightful music was furnished by the Sunday School orchestra under the direction of Miss Marjorie Street. Following the dinner a program of informal and entertaining toasts was enjoyed. Mrs. William Magee Wilson filling the place as toastmaster in a most delightful way. The program opened with the presentation to the new pastor and his wife of each of the heads of the various departments of the church work. As each was presented a clever rhyme describing their work was read by Mrs. William McGervey. Those on the list were Mrs. James Canada, president of the Ladies Aid; Mrs. H. H. Conklin, chairman of the dinner committee; Mrs. J. J. Stout, president of the Lal Bagh Missionary Society; Mrs. E. P. Hamilton, president of the Women's Home Missionary Society; Mrs. Brant Bell, president of the Sara M. Chew Missionary Society; Miss Emma LaMar, president of the Queen Esther Society; Mrs. George Street, Children's Missionary Secretary and Mr. George Street, Superintendent of the Sunday School. The verses to Mrs. McGervey, leader of the choir, and Miss Juanita Rankin, the organist, were set to music and were sung by Mr. Leigh Bickett. Verses were also read in tribute to the orchestra and in greeting to the Rev. and Mrs. W. N. Shank, of the First M. E. Church, who were guests at the dinner.

Greetings from the official Board of the church to the Rev. and Mrs. Washburn were extended by Mr. S. Milton McKay and responses were made up both the Rev. and Mrs. Washburn. A cleverly arranged little stunt by the bobbed haired and long haired women of the congregation furnished much amusement. The bobbed haired contingent was introduced by Mrs. Homer Spahr is a clever original poem and Mrs. Minor Monroe amusingly introduced the long haired women. Both groups sang entertaining little songs.

A toast by Mrs. George Eckler, "Excuses" also written in original rhyme, a toast, "The Reason Why" by Mr. Boyce, of the Central High School and an informal talk by the Rev. Mr. Shank were also enjoyable features of the program.

A tribute to three charter members of the congregation who had passed away during the year, Mrs. S. B. LeSourd, Mrs. Sara M. Chew and Mr. W. F. Trider was given by Mrs. Wilson who read the following verse, written by Mrs. Chew for a similar occasion, and read by Mrs. Wilson as Mrs. Chew's message to the congregation.

"If I could cast a charm about thy way
And bring thee all the good my heart would choose,
Thy life would be one long sweet summer day
And naught of all its blessings would refuse."

The program closed with the singing of "Blest Be The Tie That Binds." More than two hundred members of the congregation were present at the enjoyable affair.

Mr. John Edwin Bradfute, who is county agent at Hancock County, Findlay, O., accompanied his wife and little son to the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. O. E. Bradfute, here, and left immediately for Columbus, to attend the county agents' meeting.

HOW TO SPEND A NICKEL

Just 5c Will Bring Your Taste Some Downright Smoking Pleasure

Right off the bat, we want to say that a good nickel smoke is hard to believe in. No doubt you've been disappointed time and again by 5c cigars that claimed to be "worth really more." Forget the past! Here's one cigar that actually sold at a higher price for years! And only because of the volume sales it built up then, can we sell it now for a nickel!

The name? It's Havana Ribbon. And it's a real cigar, men, regardless of price. The kind you'll pick on smoking merit alone. It's so fragrant and smooth and mellow—made of ripe tobacco.

But prove it for yourself. Drop in today at the nearest cigar store and ask for a Havana Ribbon. Toss down a nickel and take one fresh from the box. And just watch yourself smile the first blue puff you blow!

JOY COMES TO KANSAS CITY WOMAN

Face was almost covered with pimples
Simple treatment makes skin smooth and clear

Kansas City, Mo., June 12—"I am delighted with Resinol Soap and Ointment, they have benefited my skin so much. The soap leaves it so smooth and gives just the results I have been looking for. I had pimples and blackheads almost covering my face at one time, but by using both soap and ointment I have succeeded in conquering the disorder. I tried several other remedies, but didn't get any results. We take both Resinol Soap and Ointment with us on our vacation trips as we find them always needed, and the ointment is especially good for almost any kind of insect bites."—(Signed) Mrs. Carl Schulze, 2311 Wabash Ave.

Your druggist sells the Resinol products. Keep your skin clear and velvety by daily use of Resinol Soap. For the occasional pimple apply a touch of Resinol Ointment.

GUESTS AT COUNTRY CLUB
MAKE MERRY AT PARTY

Guests attending the Halloween frolic at the Country Club Thursday evening made up in merry-making for any absent members at the affair. The party, the final gathering of the club membership for the season, was one of the most enjoyable and informal of the year, and was unanimously voted a huge success.

The celebration began with a grand march, in which the costumed revellers frolicked and reached the right spirit for the occasion. Halloween toasts were distributed for the match, which the guests matched for partners. Other Halloween favors were given out, and noise-making devices kept the club house in an uproar.

Music was furnished the dancers by an Orthophonic Victrola, and dancing was enjoyed until after midnight. Before the party disbanded a "ghost walk" was organized through the clubhouse and porches in true Halloween fashion.

SUNDAY SCHOOL CLASS OF CEDARVILLE ENTERTAINED
Members of the Sunday School Class, United Presbyterian Church, Cedarville, of which the Rev. C. C. Kyle is teacher, enjoyed a covered dish dinner at the home of Mr. John McCampbell, Jamestown Pike, Tuesday evening.

After dinner a social time was enjoyed. Those present were the Rev. and Mrs. C. M. Ritchie, Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Stevenson, Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Creswell, Mr. and Mrs. V. J. Tarbox, Mr. R. B. Barber, Mr. and Mrs. N. L. Ramsey, Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Cooley, the Rev. and Mrs. C. C. Kyle, the Misses Nannie and Della McClellan, Mrs. Flora Dobbins, Mrs. Dora Kerr, Mrs. Ritenour, Mrs. R. A. Jamieson, Mrs. J. E. Jobe, Mrs. William Pinney, Mrs. Cooper, Hanover, Ill., Mr. McCampbell and daughters, the Misses Ethel and Cora McCampbell.

WIENER ROAST ENJOYED BY GATHERING WEDNESDAY
Mr. Kenneth Fulkerson entertained with a wiener roast at his home on the Lower Bellbrook Pike, Wednesday evening. The guests gathered in the woods where a large bonfire had been prepared.

After roasting wieners and toasting marshmallows, the guests played games and later formed a circle about the fire and told ghost stories.

Those present were the Misses Mildred Ragar, Mary Saunders, Erma Tedrick, Francis Swartz, Dorothy Palmer, Mabel Ringer, Helen Grant, Hazel Griffith and Mrs. Percy Smith and the Messrs. Kenneth Ledbetter, George Amole, Edmund Moore, Raymond Grant, Howard Stebleton, Dayton; Kenneth Fulkerson, Dean Moore, Elbert Manor, Percy Smith, Richard Moore, Clarence Amole, James Sanders, Paul Grant, Kenneth Ragar and Harold Manor.

FIRST U. P. CHURCH WOMEN ENTERTAINED ON THURSDAY
Mrs. E. C. Moorman, president of the First U. P. Woman's Missionary Society for the past three years, cordially received the executive board of that body and the Ladies Aid Society and a number of close friends, at her home on N. King St., Thursday afternoon.

The home decorations and the beautiful menu served were in keeping with Halloween season. Mrs. C. H. Ervin, Mrs. Ella Lortimer and Mrs. Lee Peterson, Cedarville, assisted Mrs. Moorman in dispensing hospitality to the sixty-five women present.

HALLOWEEN DINNER PARTY HELD ON THURSDAY EVENING
Costumed in all the grotesque masques of the Halloween season, fifteen boys and girls spent a merry evening Thursday at the home of Miss Marjorie Garber, Dayton Ave.

The Garber home was attractively decorated for the affair. The guests arrived at 5 o'clock, when dinner was served. All delicacies of the season were served at gaily decorated tables.

Games and contests amused the guests until 8 o'clock when the party disbanded.

BEAVER REFORMED
SOCIETY HOLDS MEETING
Woman's Missionary Society of the Beaver Creek Reformed Church held a meeting at the home of Mrs. P. H. Flynn, N. Detroit St., Thursday afternoon. Seventeen members and two visitors attended the session.

Decision was reached by members to sew for the Winnebago Indians at the all-day meeting to be held November 17. Delicious refreshments were served during the meeting.

We are unloading a car of Ubiko Feeds today. All fresh, all good, and all priced right.

Minister: "If I had the power I'd dump all beer and other moonshine over there in the river."

Choir Master: "We will sing 'Shall We Gather at the River.'"

A shipment of Dr. Hess' Mds. is on the way.

He: "Marie must think quite a bit of her chin."

RECENT BRIDE IS HONORED AT PARTY

Mrs. Roy Bales (Gladys Jenks) was honor guest at a miscellaneous "shower" given by the Misses Thelma Peele and Grace Simbro at the home of Miss Peele, 45 Home Ave., Thursday evening.

Refreshments and decorations were carried out with Halloween appointments. The evening was enjoyed with contests and spelling match, with prizes won by Mrs. Bales and Mrs. Raymond Smith.

Mrs. Bales received a number of lovely gifts from the guests.

Mrs. Michael Leakey, 14 N. Miami Ave., and Mr. and Mrs. Preston Walsh and two children, of Dayton, left by motor Monday for Cleveland, for a visit with relatives. They expect to be gone about ten days.

The Marshall Bill will be explained to the Good Samaritan Class of the Friends Sunday School, Sunday morning, October 30, during the teaching period. Members of the Sunday School are urged to be present.

A "Lively Eleven" social will be held at New Burlington School, Monday evening. The P. T. A. is sponsoring this, a Halloween celebration and all residents of the community are invited.

Miss Doris Kemp, Middletown, O., is entertaining a company of Xenia friends at a Halloween party at the home of her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. G. J. Smith, E. Market St., Friday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. John Hanes and daughter, Mary, of near Zimmerman, returned home Monday from Hartford City, Ind., where they spent a few days with friends and relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. William Carmen, Paintersville, are the parents of twin daughters, born Thursday night. The babies weighed six and seven pounds.

Mr. Thomas White, teacher at New Burlington School, had his lip severely lacerated when he was struck in the mouth by the ball while playing baseball on the school ground, Wednesday.

Little Miss Barbara Ann Yockey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul B. Yockey, is entertaining a group of twelve of her playmates at a Halloween party at her home on N. Galloway St., Friday evening.

Attorney C. L. Darlington, former commander of the Ohio American Legion, who has been attending the Legion convention at Paris, with Mrs. Darlington, Mrs. Lucile Fay and Miss Marjorie Flynn, are expected to arrive in New York on the "Tuscanian" Saturday. Mrs. Fay and Miss Flynn have been touring the British Isles and the continent since June, and spent the past six weeks in Paris with Mrs. Darlington, while Attorney Darlington went on the Legion Good Will Tour of European capitals. The party, with the exception of Mrs. Fay, who will remain in New York for a time, is expected to come home in a few days.

LISTEN VOTERS

Don't Be Hoodwinked!

There is a vast amount of false, malicious, and ridiculous political propaganda being published in some of our newspapers, concerning Senate Bill No. 72, known as the Marshall Bill.

It must be manifest to all that the Greene County Dry Federation cannot attempt to answer all these so-called arguments and misrepresentations in detail through the columns of our county papers, as we are forced to pay advertising rates for all space.

Our opponents evidently know that the facts are clearly in our favor and that practically their only hope lies in deceiving the voters.

We are sure that every fair-minded voter resents such base methods being used to hoodwink him into voting against his own and his country's best interests.

Is it not perfectly clear to you that if our opponents had a clear case against the Marshall Bill, it would not be necessary for them to misrepresent the Bill nor malign its author, the Anti-Saloon League, the churches and ministers, world famed evangelists, the Farmers Grange and all other dry organizations that are sponsoring this bill.

There is an old adage "Give a man rope enough, and he will hang himself." We therefore, ignore this political rot and move quietly and steadily on, confident of victory, ever strengthened and encouraged by the righteousness and integrity of our cause.

For the benefit of any honest doubter, we publish the following statement of Mr. McDonald, Prohibition Commissioner of Ohio, appointed by the Governor.

By B. F. McDONALD, State Prohibition Commissioner
I wish to say that I favor the adoption of the Marshall Bill for at least three specific reasons.

FIRST, it will aid generally in the enforcement of law. SECONDLY, that its adoption is an absolute necessity to the enforcement of law in some of the counties of the state.

THIRDLY, that the law will not only be self-sustaining, but will be revenue producing.

As to the first, following Judge Taft's decisions in the Tumey case, at the state prohibition headquarters, there was noted almost instant reaction, noticeable to the bootleggers had assumed a more bold and defiant attitude toward the law and that attitude has continued up to the present time. In the event the Marshall Bill is defeated we firmly expect a still more defiant attitude upon the part of the law violator. It was perfectly natural that this increased defiance of the law should follow because the Tumey decision practically disarmed of authority not only the two thousand to three thousand justices of the peace and mayors of the state, but also, possibly double that number of constables, marshals and deputy marshals.

ENCOURAGED VIOLATORS
To take from the enforcement of law in the state that number of officials naturally, I say, has encouraged the violator, and to say that it has not is too absurd for discussion. Equally absurd is the statement that to reinvest this army of officials with proper authority to enforce the law will not aid and will not discourage the law violator. Isn't it strange logic, that at a time when it is claimed that crime has been increasing, that anyone should even suggest seriously that the remedy lies in withdrawing from the enforcement of law several thousand law enforcement officials? The very fact that almost the entire opposition to the Marshall Bill consists of wet propagandists, bootleggers and their sympathizers should in itself be sufficient proof that despite their statements to the contrary they realize that the Marshall Bill will be an obstacle in their way and an aid in the enforcement of the law. The adoption of the Marshall Bill will discourage the bootlegger and aid generally in the enforcement of the law.

As to the second reason, the Tumey decision has left all enforcement outside large cities to our Probate and Common Pleas Courts, and in at least four counties in Ohio these courts have informed us plainly they would not hear these cases, that we should not file these cases in their courts and that if we did the cases would be dismissed. The wet propagandists and opponents of the Marshall Bill say that we should mandamus the courts and force them to hear these cases, but I ask what can any sane person expect in the way of law enforcement from any court that has to be mandamus to perform its duty? I say the adoption of the Marshall Bill in such county is a necessity, if chaos in law enforcement is to be avoided.

AS TO REVENUE
As a third reason I say the Marshall Bill, if adopted, will not only be self-sustaining but will add to the coffers of state and counties many hundreds of thousands of dollars. In support of that statement I need but refer to the hundreds of thousands of dollars collected from bootleggers and turned over to the state treasury by the court at Rocky River, in Cuyahoga county, and the court at Milford, in Hamilton county, two courts about which in my judgment there has never been any justifiable criticism. The Marshall Bill, if adopted, will, just as the State Prohibition Department has done, and is doing, return to the treasury of state and county ten dollars for every one expended.

I favor the adoption of the Marshall Bill for the reason that it will lessen the burden of the taxpayer at the expense of the bootlegger and general law violator.

In addition to the above reasons I believe that the farmer, and rural citizen is entitled to the protection and advantages of a local court as fully and completely as is the citizen of the city.

MEETS ALL OBJECTIONS
This bill meets the objections made by the U. S. Supreme Court in the Tumey case. When adopted the accused can no longer charge that his constitutional right to have a fair and impartial trial has been invaded, for the reason that the costs of the case are paid by the county regardless of the outcome of the trial.

It is argued that the officials, the magistrates, constables, etc., will file and prosecute unwarranted cases in order that they might receive the maximum of fees. This argument is refuted by the experience in the Fish and Game Department where an appropriation was made to pay costs in all cases wherein the state falls and while that appropriation has been made for several years, never at any time has the whole amount been consumed and the Legislature reduced the appropriation, ostensibly for the reason that the same was not being used. Anyways, objection to the bill is refuted, as it does, that before the fees can be paid out the same must be approved by "either the prosecuting attorney of the county or the attorney-general or by the chief supervisor of or an examiner under the Bureau of Inspection and Supervision of Public Office."

Furthermore, any unwarranted arrests or prosecutions would soon result in civil suits against the officers and their bondsmen.

We think the bill guards well against any such violation. Finally I wish to say that in my judgment the proportion of justices of the peace and mayors who fall honorably to live up to their oath of office is no greater, if as great, as those holding positions of probate and common pleas judges.

SPOILING THRILLS

The reason why the track events which used to draw thousands to the Greek stadia holds no kick for the modern public compared to that contained in a prize fight or football game is revealed by W. O. McGeehan writing in "Vanity Fair."

"You can not be thrilled," points out the famous sports editor, "over a foot race and compare the winner to Hermes when the timers announce that he ran the distance a second and a half behind the record set by Bibbets of Yale three years before in the intercollegiate meet. You cannot compare a weight thrower to Fin McCool, the Irish Giant, tossing a section of the Giants Causeway Engleward, when the man with the tape measure tells you that the cast is three feet shy of the record made at the last Olympics."

On the other hand, says Mr. McGeehan, every prize fighter is a John L. Sullivan to his age and locality; every football star a Red Grange to his college. There is no way of comparing him with the heroes that have gone before.

According to the writer, statistics in athletic achievement are depressing and a deterrent to the modern Homers of the sport pages. "For the cold figures show," he writes, "that, in every line of athletic endeavor that can be recorded in regard to time or distance, every known athletic record has been bettered within the last 20 years and, of course, the end is not yet. With the use of the stop-watch and the tape measure, achievements can be recorded in cold figures which cramp the style of the writers and make the track and field meet one of the least interesting of athletic contests."

CHANGING FOR BETTER

"We are living today in what is probably the most irreligious epoch of all history," declares Aldous Huxley, brilliant young English novelist.

The reason for the present decay of religion, explains Mr. Huxley, lies in the fact that the partially educated masses have just discovered, some forty years behind the time, the materialism of nineteenth-century science. "However," continues the English writer, "the fact that many people are now without a religion does not mean that they are without some substitute for a religion; their religious feelings and intuitions find vent in forms that are not immediately recognizable as religious."

Chief among these substitutes for religion which provide some outlet for the religious instinct, according to Mr. Huxley, are extreme nationalism, particularly where the State is weak and oppressed; revolutionary democracy; ritualistic organizations; modern art for art's sake; asceticism and anti-sex fanaticism; and big business. Doctors, lawyers and artists, he points out, have taken the place of the priests, the confessors and spiritual advisors.

In spite of the conditions he describes, he sees no reason to believe that the present condition of irreligion is a permanent one. He says, "None of the substitutes is more than very partially adequate. A religion covers all the intellectual and emotional ground. It offers an explanation of the universe; it consoles, it provides its devotees with uplifting, God-creating rites. No substitutes can do as much. No religious surrogate can completely satisfy all the religious needs of men. The scientific men, it is significant to note, are rapidly abandoning their materialistic position. What they think now, the masses will doubtless be thinking a generation hence."

America is said to be the richest country in the world, but you would never know it when you get out with a subscription paper.

The Way of the World

CLAPTRAP

Dean Inge, St. Paul's cathedral, London, remarks that government "of, by and for the people" is claptrap. It very often looks that way in this country. But the dean is a short range pessimist. If democracy is claptrap it is not because there is anything wrong with the idea of democracy or representative government, but there is something wrong with the rank and file of people who make up the nation. If the government is claptrap it is not because of the form of government, but because of the low level of intelligence. More money for schools, and churches, teachers and preachers, books and education, and less for powder and battleships—and government "of, by, and for the people" will not be claptrap.

IDEAS TAKE TIME

A Kansas City editor tells us that if we have an advanced idea we must expect to live 500 years if we hope to see the idea accepted by the rank and file. When Copernicus, a very smart Pole with a Latin name, told his fellows that the earth moved around the sun, they gave him a good laugh. Folks laughed for generations. Of course they thought that Copernicus, whose real name was Kappernik, was a little off in the top story. Now, when somebody tells us the earth doesn't move around the sun we think he is crazy. The way people hold to what they think is truth after the so-called truth has been exploded, often makes this a rather sorry world.

800 MILES AN HOUR

Arno Boerner, Dresden, Germany, has invented a new motor which he thinks will send an airplane 800 miles an hour. It is so powerful that an oversize propeller can be used. The plane can be lifted far and fast above storms, and in the clear air of upper levels makes unbelievable speed. Eight hundred miles an hour would mean a flight from Europe to America in four or five hours.

We of the earth are not quite ready for that sort of thing. From time to time we are reminded that the soul and mind of the average man are not up to the far reaches of inventive genius. We don't quite know what to do with our amazing mechanical progress.

The Daybook

OF A

New Yorker

By

Burton Rascoe

NEW YORK, Oct. 28.—"There was a terrible hubbub on the back platform of the Third Avenue elevated train the other night," said my friend, the east side physician. "So I ambled back to investigate. It was the funniest sight ever. And yet it was pathetic as the dickens. A kid about eight was the center of attraction. He had a goldfish bowl rammed down over his head, clamped there irrevocably, it seemed. And atop this horror sat sedately his checked hat. His mother, angry and indignant, explained she was taking him to the doctor's. She said he'd been naughty enough; she wasn't going to let him gallivant around without his hat and get wrong ideas. I guess she was too mad to sacrifice the bowl by shattering it, and so save herself the trip and the indignity. She was sore clean through and her finer feelings weren't suffering. But that kid! My friend laughed till the tears came. 'It was New York's funniest sight of the day!'"

It is always surprising to me, the way in which seasoned dramatists hammer in their points until it would seem the plays are written for morons. The other night I sat through a drama called "Hidden," a drama which exposed, with all the subtleties of a freight train, the lack of a blond for her brunette sister's husband. Even the dullards in the audience were aware at the end of the first act, what went forward: why Vi pretended to hate Nicky, and why she tried to set Ellen against him. But none of the characters seemed to have the slightest notion what was going on. They were represented as New York's finest—sophisticate, elegant. They dressed for dinner without being self-conscious, they went to the opera, they had a parlormaid in addition to an unseen cook. It is to be supposed, then that they were familiar with the psychiatric patter of the day, but they were certainly awfully dumb about the situation. Another point that struck me as extremely odd about the piece was this. While the heroine was continually referring to herself, in all modesty, as "an intellectual," no evidence of her gifts was offered. I guess, on one occasion, she delivered a most indignant speech over the radio. Can it be that Mr. William Hurlbut, who wrote "Hidden," thinks of Baby's Bed-time Hour in the same breath with the Round Table at the Algonquin?

Enveloped in a shattering casing of tangerine hue, comes this pulse stirring message from the headquarters of Texas Guinan: "Texas Guinan, Uncrowned Queen of Broadway, takes extreme pleasure in announcing to her legion of friends the opening of Texas Guinan's Century Club, on the lower floor of the Century Theatre building, Sixty-second street and Central Park West, in New York on Friday evening, October the seventh. Inaugurating a new era in Gotham's night life, a three ring miniature circus consisting of Mirth Merriment, Rev. elry and Abandon (O come, come, Text) Miss Guinan will be assisted by her Galaxy of beautiful merry-makers, the most adorable mob of Pulchritude ever assembled. Attend the triumphant return of her majesty, the Regent of Revelry!"

Having read the above, I called, "Boy, the old carpet slippers!" I stoked my pipe, turned on the radio, and murmured "Pfu!" to the fireplace, which smokes.

KELLYGRAMS

by Fred C. Kelly
WHEN SERVICE BECOMES A NUISANCE

Service can become a nuisance. I hate to be brushed off in wash-rooms or to have a boy bring towels to me when I could just as well reach for them myself. I find myself irritated when I enter a store or hotel to have an abled-bodied man in elaborate livery pompously open the door for me—with as much aplomb as if I were a returning hero, even though he perhaps surmises that I know I'm not.

Bell boys annoy me, when, as I come into a hotel, one of them, acting under orders, rushes up to take my grip. Why should those of us who have been taught to wait on our selves at home have our characters undermined by being treated as pampered pets in hotels. Just yesterday I saw a fat man employ a thin, undersized little boy to carry a suitcase almost as large as the boy. What the fat man evidently needed to restore a girlish figure would have been regularly to carry both the boy and the suitcase.

On the other hand, I have seen powerfully-built men beckon to porters at railway stations to carry luggage not much heavier than a woman's handbag. Of course, this isn't because a man is burdened by the weight, but because it makes him feel important to have a redcap working for him. I even know a man who went on a long canoe trip and had the chance of his life to reduce his waistline, but hired a guide to do all the delightful paddling.

I find myself avoiding restaurants where girls are employed to check hats and help strong men on with their overcoats. Why must I have the assistance of a girl, who is obliged to work hard-

THE BATTLE OF BUNKUM HILL

Living and Loving

BY MRS. VIRGINIA LEE

Should She Confess?
Should a girl tell her fiancé of her past, when she has made the one (for women) unpardonable mistake? Would he tell her of his past blunders, and would either have a right to condemn the other when all is past and repented of?

I do wonder what my readers think of this single standard question. Here is the girl's letter:

"Dear Mrs. Virginia Lee: My problem has made me feel so bad that I have to confide in someone. To begin with, I am a girl 21. And now I am in love, and I know my love has been returned, because my friend has asked me to marry him. But what can I do? Three or four years ago I started to run around and what people call running wild. I met a certain fellow that attracted me so. I knew he had a bad reputation, but as you know you cannot tell any girl who thinks there is no one that could do any harm to a person. He told me he liked me and wanted me to be his girl, but would not consider marriage. I, like a fool, believed every word he said, so you know what happened. I never made a fool of myself after that."

"Now, after three years I have met a fellow that I know I feel so different towards. Shall I tell him of the past, or shall I not say anything? I have not seen the other fellow for several years, but I am worried to death that my friend may find out sometime, and I don't know what he would say. I am afraid if I told him I would lose him. He thinks I am a pure girl and it breaks my heart to have to let him know anything else. He has asked me several times when I will marry him, but I told him I would like to study it over. Now I am leaving everything in your hands."

ANXIOUS.

If he had had a similar experience would he tell you? If you can forget it yourself and not let the thought of it make you miserable in your married life, I would say, don't tell him. You were a child and there is no use punishing yourself unnecessarily. If you cannot, why tell him, and if he is broadminded and understanding he will feel as I do, that it is past and done and you are a brave girl to tell and he will love you all the more.

"My Dear Mrs. Lee: I am engaged to a fellow that I have not known for very long. Now he is in another town and has been for some time. I seldom hear from him and I have written the last letter. Would it be profitable for me to write and ask what is the matter?"

WONDERING.

Certainly write again and ask him what is the matter. When you are planning marriage with a man you certainly should know what his affections are cooling or if his failure to write is merely lack of time and inclination. So many people hate to write letters even to those they love best.

Peter's Adventures

By Mrs. Florence Smith Vincent.

Friendly Mrs. Flittermouse
Peter stared more closely at the dark form at his feet and grew thoughtful.

"You seem to know a great deal about Bats," remarked he. "When one fellow knows what another eats he must be a pretty close friend. Which reminds me, you haven't told me yet who you are."

The strange little fellow giggled.

"If you had been right smart you might have guessed. I am not a fellow at all—I am Mrs. Flittermouse, and—"

Peter cried out in surprise. "Mrs. Flittermouse! I didn't know there was a lady. I certainly never heard of you before."

"That doesn't prove anything at all," declared the creature. "Besides, you interrupted me. If you are as rude again I shall have to follow my husband."

"Your husband?" shrieked the boy, now so surprised he quite forgot his manners. "Do you mean to tell me that Batty is your mate—that you are a Bat yourself? If you are, you don't look it."

Household Hints

BY MRS. MARY MORTON

MENU HINT

Many people like to start a dinner with soup and it's a good habit. Strictly speaking, the bouillon cup is used to serve soup at luncheon, the soup plate at a dinner. But in one's own home it is not necessary to be so particular. Serve the soup in any way that is most convenient.

Vegetable Soup
Persian Cabbage Celery
Apple Dumplings Coffee

Today's Recipes

Vegetable Soup (without stock)
—One-third cup carrots, one-third cup turnips, one-half cup celery, one and one-half cups potatoes, one quart of water, five tablespoons finely chopped parsley, salt and pepper, one-half onion. Wash and scrape a small carrot, wash and pare half a turnip and potatoes. Wash and scrape celery and cut vegetables in cubes of uniform size. Cut onions in thin slices. Mix vegetables (except potatoes) and cook ten minutes in four tablespoons butter, stirring constantly. Add potatoes, cover and cook five minutes, or until vegetables are soft. Season to taste with salt and pepper, add remaining butter and chopped parsley.

Persian Cabbage — One large cabbage, one pound hamburger steak, one-half dozen small onions, one cup cooked rice. Remove cabbage leaves carefully, wilt in warm water or scald so they will not break. Cut off part of center stem if too thick. Mix together steak, onion and rice. Place heap- ing tablespoon of mixture on each cabbage leaf, fold up and fasten with toothpicks. Place all in one kettle with a little water and cook slowly one hour. Serve plain or with sauce of vinegar and butter, if desired.

Timbale is a French word meaning cup shaped.

Mock Angel Food

(Mrs. Mary Morton's Daily Tested Recipe.)

One cup granulated sugar, one cup cake flour, three teaspoons baking powder, one cup scalded milk, two egg whites, flavoring. Sift flour, sugar and baking powder four times. Pour over the dry ingredients the hot, scalded milk, mix thoroughly, add flavoring. Cut and fold in the stiffly beaten egg whites. Turn into an unbuttered angel cake pan and bake in a moderate oven forty-five minutes. This is better twenty-four hours after it is baked.

Just then a shaft of moonlight came slanting through the trees and fell full on Mrs. Flittermouse, and Peter scarcely heard her last words, so interested was he in studying his companion.

"I can guess how you got the last half of your name," chuckled the boy. "You do look like a mouse, that's a fact. Your eyes are as bright and your nose as pointed. But, on the other hand, your tail is not nearly as long. In fact, 'tis scarcely a tail at all; and your ears are big, while Mousie's are tiny. Gracious! What is that you wear on your nose? A ruffle? No mouse I ever saw wore anything like it!"

"'Tis a fold of skin, my boy, but 'tis all the better to smell with," squeaked Mrs. Flittermouse, and grinned at Peter, showing a whole mouthful of sharp teeth as white as snow.

Behind The Scenes In Washington

By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—The "west" is a good deal sorer and madder than the political bosses realized until just now. The fact is, the bosses don't know as much about the country as they flatter themselves they do. The big ones are down-easters, anyway.

Occasionally one of them makes a flying trip west, or even stays awhile, like President Coolidge. The folks are hospitable, and the tourists come back convinced everything's lovely.

It isn't, necessarily. Politeness to the company may be only skin deep.

Western sub-bosses drift into Washington, with ominous reports. The super-bosses don't take them very seriously. They prefer not to, for one thing. For another, the situation right around them looks serene enough. They think the sub-bosses are mere alarmists.

But when the big bosses finally do get scared, they get scared all through. They're getting thoroughly scared now.

That is to say, the "ins" are getting scared.

The "outs" are half scared and half hopeful.

If the "west" turns hostile and massacres the "ins" why, that's great, as far as it goes; so reason the "outs." But suppose, once being in the mood, they turn around then and scalp the "outs" too? The "outs" big bosses aren't quite prepared to congratulate themselves, prematurely, until they know more about that.

War whoops have been heard from out in the direction of the corn belt for quite a while, but the "ins" big bosses said: "It's that same bunch of renegades who acted so ugly four years ago. They took it out in nothing but whooping then. That's as far as they're likely to get with it this time."

Or, to quote the "outs": "They didn't help us a bit in 1924. No use in counting on 'em next year."

It's hardly two weeks since both sides were talking that way. Today there's what looks like an excellent prospect that the whole tribe will jump the reservation. It's no longer a matter of mere chronic bad actors. Plenty of pretty respectable chieftains—senators and others whom the eastern bosses wouldn't have thought it of—are putting on paint and feathers.

What particularly worries the "ins" bosses is that this thing appears to have started itself, so to speak.

The movement of 1924 was essentially a one-man affair.

Its leader, the late Senator La Follette, had to drag it along after him. You couldn't call an uprising of that kind very enthusiastic. Outside Wisconsin, perhaps, its time simply hadn't come. That was about the size of it.

This outburst looks spontaneous, which is dangerous.

Is it the beginning of a real western revolt? That's what the leaders would like to know. In the back of their minds, they're as well aware as anybody that the regular old-line parties have ceased to mean anything. On the strict "q. t." they're afraid as death of a realignment because a realignment naturally would mean a terrific shakeup will do to leaderships.

And that, in turn, explains why the "outs" bosses are about as skeery of the west's behavior as the "ins" leaders are. Momentarily a split in the "ins" ranks might benefit the "outs," but afterward? That's the question.

I Have Said in My Heart

By IDAH MCGLONE GIBSON

DIVORCE

A saintly rather than human bishop of the Episcopal church is sternly advocating the tightening of that church's law on divorce.

He would have the church absolutely forbid the marriage of any person having a wife or husband living.

Either the good bishop must be a celibate or else he is most happily married, for one can think of no other type of human being that would condemn a person to live with another when by doing so daily existence becomes daily torture.

It is a most inhuman thing to punish two people by sentencing them to a lifetime of daily torture for a mistake made because old Mother Nature cast the glamour of desire before their eyes.

Nature is the most unconscionable tyrant in carrying out her own great law. She has no compunction in bringing anything to bear that will accomplish her ends.

She blinds the eyes of the poor wights whom propinquity, physical fascination, or chemical magnetism brings to her notice.

Then when the deed is done, when mating or marriage is consummated, she calmly leaves them to make the best they can of a bargain in which neither has the slightest idea of what he or she has really promised.

Not long ago some rash soul—I think it was a woman—suggested that our schools and colleges should put in a course of teaching the requirements of love and marriage, and was soundly berated by the sage educators who, as usual, are afraid to touch on the real human affairs of life.

The sooner our young men and young girls are taught that love and marriage are absolutely two different things, the sooner will we have more happy marriages and less divorces.

Goethe remarked in one of his essays that "the beautiful is greater than the good, because the beautiful must contain the good." In the same way, a successful marriage is a greater thing in life than love, for marriage, while it may contain many other things, must contain love if it would last. Not the love that Nature spreads—which is three parts personal vanity, three parts propinquity and four parts desire—but the love which many of us call affection—the kind of love that makes one forbearing—the kind of love that makes one interested in the other.

Those in authority in the church are apt to say, "Do thou," thus usurping the prerogative of the Maker of Law Himself. They have not yet learned that the layman also thinks and reasons in this day and age.

Today men and women must be taught the responsibilities of marriage instead of being carried to thrilling heights by descriptions of the ecstasies of love.

Just recently a man said to me that he expected there was not a married man living that had not wished at sometime or another that he were free, and in that same week a care-worn woman who was suing for divorce said hesitatingly that many a time she had looked across the breakfast table where her husband was calmly reading his newspaper and wished that he were dead.

To live with a man or woman you hate is committing adultery, even if the union has been blessed by the church and approved by the state.

Memo: Divorce—instead of being impossible—should be obligatory in cases of this sort.

How to Achieve Beauty

BY NINE HELENA RUBINSTEIN

How to Keep a Slim Waistline and a Flat Abdomen

Yesterday I spoke about how to keep your shoulder blades in and your chest up, but it would hardly be right to leave you with the upper body right and the lower all wrong. So today I am going to talk about waist line and abdomen—all that section which is bounded on the north by the bust and the south by the hips. I might tell you that this is the most important part of your body, but every time I write about beauty I am tempted to say the same thing—really, every part is the most important because there is no dividing line anywhere.

This section I am discussing today is especially important because it includes the vital organs and they depend so much upon the outer structure to hold them in place that you cannot afford to let yourself droop for the sake of your health. As for the beauty angle, I need not tell you how much more beautiful a slim waistline and flat abdomen are than a whole downward sag and protruding stomach.

On the whole a protruding stomach bespeaks a lazy mind or indifference to beauty. For the woman who allows herself to go that way, or even who depends altogether upon tight corsets to keep her in, hasn't enough interest in life to try to be completely beautiful. Even a mother should have a flat abdomen if she has had proper care after her child was born and did not get up too soon. That phase should be considered very carefully during convalescence.

An excellent exercise for strengthening your stomach muscles is to lie flat on your back on the floor and sit up without using your hands. Then bend forward and touch your toes with the tips of your fingers.

To limber up your waist, do the "windmill" exercise, stretching your arms out to your sides and swinging from side to side with your feet flat on the floor touching the toes of the left foot with the fingers of the right hand and vice versa. Stretch often, whenever you think of it, measuring up to your greatest height. I cannot go into the many exercises in detail, but before long I am going to devote a whole week to exercises and I hope that you will watch for those talks. My next subject for this week will be "What Constitutes the Beautiful Back and How to Acquire It."

Torchlight Parade Precedes Big Gridiron Tilt

CENTRAL PREPARES TO WITHER WITHROW WITH PEP MEETING

Bonfire And Talks Conclude Rally Thursday Night

Familiar scenes of former years were reenacted on a much larger scale by the student body of Central High School on the eve of the Xenia-Withrow football game Thursday night, indicating that the old "hurray" spirit is still existent at the E. Church St. institution.

It was one of the most enthusiastic demonstrations of high school spirit in the history of the school, starting off with a long torchlight parade through the business section of the city in which more than 600 boys and girls participated, and winding up with a pep meeting around a huge bonfire in front of Cox Memorial Athletic Field.

Students assembled in front of the Central High building at 6:45. They had supplied themselves with noise-making contrivances, including tin cans, horns, whistles or what have you. Red and green torches were distributed and banners were also in evidence.

Forming in single file, the students marched, snake fashion, through the business district. The parade was led by Peter Shagin, motorcycle policeman, who assisted in clearing traffic, followed by John Prugh, senior president and a drum corps, headed by William B. McCallister, student, arrayed in a stiff hat.

The parade wended its way to Church St., turned south on Detroit St., to Second St., west on Second to West St., north to Main St., east to Collier St., and thence to the athletic field, where a huge bonfire awaited the marchers.

Parents of students attended the bonfire meeting and hundreds of students and townspeople were present.

A speaker's platform was erected and the assembly indulged in an old-fashioned rally. Cheer leaders led the populace in football yells. Senior members of the football squad were called upon for brief talks, Captain Bob Morton responding on behalf of the team.

HOME GRIDDERS TO SEE COLLEGE GAME

Members of the football squad of the O. S. and S. O. Home will be guests of Am Le Voiture, No. 15, Columbus, and Greene County Voiture, No. 140, Forty and Eight Society, at the Ohio State-Chicago football game at Columbus Saturday afternoon.

The trip is being given the Home gridders as a reward for victories on the gridiron this season. The Home defeated Cedarville High last week 13 to 0.

A personally conducted tour of the Ohio State University campus and the huge stadium and dinner at Ohio Union will be features of the trip.

Greene County Voiture will furnish automobiles for the trip.

BEAVER TEAM LOSES TO HOME GRIDDERS

O. S. and S. O. Home football eleven continued its winning ways by defeating Beaver Creek High School 13 to 0 in a close contest on the Beaver gridiron Friday afternoon. This makes two victories in a row for the Home boys.

Coach Insley's team has no regularly scheduled game for next week but the following week-end will play the strong Parker High school team from Dayton on the Home gridiron.

ELKS' CARNIVAL TO HAVE "KIDDIES DAY" AT CLUB SATURDAY

Saturday will be "Kiddies Day" at the Elks Charity Fair, Elks' Club, Second and Whiteman Sts. Doors of the club will be opened at 2:30 for the young guests. Boys and girls are asked to attend masked. Children under twelve will be admitted free.

Prizes will be offered for costumes, including the best-looking, most comical, and best dressed couple.

A good time is assured the youngsters and orchestra music will be furnished during the afternoon.

Crowds fill the club each night of the fair. Prizes are being given away, offered by Xenia business houses, and dancing is attracting hundreds to the celebration nightly.

BIJOU INSTALLS MARQUEE AT DOOR

Work of installing a new marquee at the Bijou Theater, Green St., was completed Friday afternoon and the improvement adds much to the exterior appearance of the movie house, which was recently re-modelled throughout.

The marquee was installed by the Frank B. Scott Tin Shop, W. Main St., the same firm that installed the metal ceiling in the theater recently. The extension is of metallic composition and will be lighted along the underneath edge.

The marquee measures twenty by seven feet. The familiar Bijou sign will remain in place over the marquee.

FARMER WOMAN IN OKLAHOMA

Praises Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Because It Gave Her Health and Strength

In a sunny pasture in Oklahoma, a herd of sleek cows was grazing. They made a pretty picture. But the thin woman in the blue checked apron sighed as she looked at them. She was tired of cows, tired of her tedious work in the dairy. She was tired of cooking for a household of boarders, besides caring for her own family. The burdens of life seemed too heavy for her failing health. She had lost confidence in herself.

One day she began taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and her general health began to improve. She took it faithfully. Now she can do her work without any trouble, sleeps well and is no longer blue and tired.

This woman, Mrs. Cora Short, R. R. 9, Box 387, Oklahoma City, Okla., writes: "Everybody now says: 'Mrs. Short, what are you doing to yourself?' I weigh 135 and my weight before I took it was 115. I have taken seven bottles of the Vegetable Compound."

Are you on the Sunlit Road to Better Health?

Farm Notes

FARM RELIEF

Farm relief, a question which has been before the public for several years, will be one of the chief subjects of discussions in legislative bodies again this winter, says W. W. Anderson, of the Greene County Farm Bureau. Leaders of Ohio farm organizations have been studying the subject constantly and are attempting to agree on plans which will be satisfactory to Ohio farmers.

Ohio farmers have not opposed farm relief on the grounds that no relief or new conditions were necessary, but rather that they doubted whether the plans under consideration at past sessions of Congress would accomplish the kind of relief for agriculture which would operate effectively and be fair to all branches of the industry, is the opinion expressed by officials of the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation in word sent here.

"Ohio farmers took time to study farm relief proposals, and refused to jump at the first proposal for several reasons," says M. D. Lincoln, secretary of the federation in an opinion received at the local farm bureau office. "In the first place Ohio is not a one or two crop state. Due to its diversity and the nature of its agriculture Ohio farmers are both producers and purchasers of many crops. They were not at all sure that what might be accomplished for the corn or wheat grower under the McNary-Haugen proposal might not be done at the expense of the livestock producer, the dairyman and poultry producer."

Another reason named by Mr. Lincoln for the hesitancy of the Ohio farmer to fall in with the McNary-Haugen measure is that Ohio farm leaders are pledged strongly to co-operative marketing as one of the methods for improving the agricultural industry. These leaders were skeptical of the promise made that the measure would benefit co-operatives and thought, rather, that it might materially hamper their growth and development. "In talking over the matter of farm relief we are discussing a purely economic problem," says Mr. Lincoln. "Yet farm relief—much as the tariff has been at times—has become too much of a political issue, and the real meat of the question is befogged by political maneuvering. This is true among some farm leaders as well as among many politicians."

Ohio farmers are not unaware of the disparity between agriculture and industry. They recognize that the standard of farm living has increased greatly, but they recognize also that it has not kept pace with the general level. It is said, Ohio farm leaders have been studying farm relief for some time in the hope of working out some plan which would secure relief for all through overcoming the objections raised in the past.

The features which are believed of particular importance in any plan which hopes to gain the support of Ohio farmers are that co-operative organizations be adequately protected, and that the tariff be so adjusted that any plan applying on wheat or other grains must furnish equal protection to our own producers of poultry and livestock products which consume these grains, in the opinion of farm bureau leaders.

DRY PARIS FOR HIM

NEW YORK.—At least one leg- ionnaire appreciates the quality of "good old corn," as compared with French bonded liquors. He is Dave Chapman, Nebraskan, arriving with the rear guard of the returning second A. E. F. Chapman turned down drinks in Paris. "Buddy," he said at the gangplank, "I wouldn't spend my money for the stuff they sell over there. I'm saving it until I return home where I can get a real drink of corn."

PAINTERSVILLE

The all day meeting which was held at the church Thursday was reported a very interesting meet- ing, but was not largely attended. Friends and relatives were sorry to hear of the death of Mr. Aaron Devoe who passed away at his home here Wednesday morning after an illness of several months. The widow, Mrs. Ruth Devoe, wishes to thank her friends and neighbors for their kind sympathy during the illness and death of her husband. Mrs. Jane Thomas, of Jamestown, and Mrs. Rudd, of Pt. William, remained a few days with Mrs. Devoe.

Mrs. Lela Caraway and little granddaughter, Louise Franklin, spent Sunday with Edd Caraway and family, of Bowersville. Will Smith, of Spring Valley and Sam Franklin were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Faulkner Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Isiah Mason spent Sunday with Delma Thomas and family, of White Chappel. Mr. and Mrs. Edd Ashmore and family spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Rhodes, of near Sabina.

Miss Louisa Fawcett and Mr. Sherman Fawcett, spent Sunday with Morris Fawcett and family, of Dayton.

Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Pickering and family spent Friday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Kalter, of Dayton.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Fawcett had as their Sunday guests, Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Quigley and children, Leonard and Louise. Mrs. Anna Quigley and Mr. Johnnie Patch, all of Martinsville. Evening callers were Mr. and Mrs. Hansel Fawcett, of Dayton and Roy Bone and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Lindy Linton and family motored to Dayton, Thurs- day, to see Ben Hur.

Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Bales gave a family dinner Sunday at their home, honoring their son and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Bales, of Xenia, who were recently married. Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Jess Peterson and daughter, Wilmina and son Clarence, Mr. and Mrs. John Beason and daughters, Erbia, Ruth, Mary, Phyllis, and son, Clarence, of near Xenia; Mr. and Mrs. Howard Pickering and daughter, Kathryn, of Pt. William; Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Bales and daughter, Lena and son Lewis, of Xenia and Gladys and Howard Bales.

Mrs. Herman Agnor and daughter, Dorothy, of near Xenia, spent Sat- urday with Mrs. Emmitt Smith.

Dorothy, of near Xenia, spent Sat- urday with Mrs. Emmitt Smith.

Lesson No. 2

Question: Why do under- weight children need an emulsified cod-liver oil?

Answer: Because it pro- vides a vitamin-rich food that nourishes efficiently and helps thin children put on weight. It's known world- wide as SCOTT'S EMULSION.

TO RELIEVE STOMACH DILATION, GAS
Dilation of the stomach usually arises because excess stomach acid causes food to ferment and form sour gases which are responsible for those unpleasant sensations of swelling and fullness, often very painful.
To avoid and relieve stomach dilation take a tablet of "Pape's Diapiesin" after meals or when pain is felt. "Pape's Diapiesin" neutralizes acidity and prevents the formation of wind, heartburn and flatulence, and insures healthy, painless digestion.
Druggists everywhere sell "Pape's Diapiesin" at 60 cents a package—not much to pay for complete freedom from digestive pain and stomach troubles, is it? Better get your package of "Pape's Diapiesin" today. —Adv.

AIRPLANE FACTORY AT WICHITA SPEEDS UP ITS PRODUCTION
WICHITA, Kan., Oct. 24.—The Swallow Airplane factory located here at 21st and Hillside Avenue, has increased its production steadily to a point where it is turning out three to four planes a week. Additional machinery and an increase in floor space are credited with enabling the company to speed up its production.
Like all the airplane manufacturers in Wichita, Swallow has found it difficult to obtain materials. The company will ship a carload of planes to the Springfield Airways at Springfield, Mass. Another shipment will be delivered to a Muncie, Indiana dealer.
George R. Bassett, general manager of the Swallow company, recently made contracts for 1928 for the delivery of twelve Swallow biplanes to C. H. Williams, Milwaukee dealer.

Contract for twenty-five ships during the next twelve months was obtained by Swallow from the Southern Airways at Dallas, Texas. The first of these ships will be delivered in November.
It is expected that within the next few days an order for at least twenty-five planes for Mexican use will be placed here, by a firm representing the Mexican government. Already a Swallow plane has been tried out in Mexico for scout flying.

MONTGOMERY AGAIN MADE PRESIDENT OF CIGARETTE FOES

Dr. J. Knox Montgomery, president of Muskingum College, New Concord, O., was re-elected president of the Anti-Cigarette Alliance of America, at the convention at the First Reformed Church, Thursday afternoon.

All officers, except the recording secretary, were re-elected at the meeting. They are: Dr. D. H. Kress, Washington, D. C., nerve specialist, first vice-president; Dr. Harvey Wiley, former U. S. Health Commissioner, second vice-president; Dr. David Starr Jordan, president of Leland Stanford University, California, third vice-president; Mrs. Fannie Custis, Xenia, recording secretary; Mrs. Carrie L. Flatter, Xenia, executive secretary; Dr. Homer J. Hall, Franklin, Ind., treasurer.

Four new directors were elected: the Rev. S. A. Blessing, West Milton, O.; L. A. Hansen, Tacoma Park, Md.; Mrs. Grace Lewis, Emporia, Kan.; and Melville Dewey, Lake Placid, N. Y.

Mrs. Fannie Custis, Xenia, was appointed local office secretary and Mrs. Flatter was assigned to field work.

Several recommendations for the proposed plan of work for the coming year were adopted at the Thursday afternoon session.

Dr. George Wareham, Storm Lake, Ia., Dr. Montgomery and Mrs. Flatter were speakers at the evening session. Dr. Wareham described the work of the Anti-Cigarette Alliance in Iowa and Dr. Montgomery advanced his theory as to the harmful effects of the cigarette on college students, and gave reasons why he banned cigarettes from the Muskingum campus.

Mrs. Flatter explained the psychological brain chart, showing the effect of cigarette smoking on the brain cells.

The attendance at the convention was not up to expectations and the Friday sessions were abandoned and the convention adjourned Thursday night.

AUTOS COLLIDE ON WILMINGTON PIKE

Occupants of both automobiles escaped injury when a sedan driven by a man named Gallup, Wilmington, crashed into a sedan driven by Charles M. Devoe, Wilmington, at the entrance to the latter's farm home, three and one-half miles southeast of Xenia early Thursday night.

Both machines were traveling in the same direction and the collision occurred as Mr. Devoe was about to turn off the pike into the driveway of his home, after having been to the home of Frank Weaver, a neighbor, to obtain a supply of gasoline.

The Wilmington car swerved off the highway after the crash, struck a tree glancingly, and then upset by the side of the road. Both cars were damaged. Gallup's auto was being driven rapidly and failed to display lights, it was reported.

Devoe is quoted as saying he did not notice the second machine.

Devoe's car was towed in to a Xenia garage for repairs while the Wilmington car was taken back to Wilmington by a wrecking car from a garage in that city.

TRACTION BRINGS CHILDREN TO MOVIE

Through the courtesy of Thomas J. Ferneding, Dayton, general manager of the Dayton and Xenia Railway Co., in providing free transportation on the interurban traction line, thirty-five children and two matrons of the Greene County Children's Home were enabled to witness the World War benefit motion picture, "Men of Purpose" at the matinee performance at the Bijou Theatre Friday afternoon.

The children were guests of Co. L, 147th Infantry, Ohio National Guard, under auspices of which, the film was brought to Xenia.

Friday night two shows will be given at 7 and 9 o'clock and this will be the final opportunity for Xenians to see the authentic reproduction of World War scenes.

PARTITION SOUGHT IN COURT ACTION

Partition of real estate is sought in a suit filed in Common Pleas Court by Douglas Marshall against Alpharetta, Charles, Zetta and Luvenia Marshall.

Plaintiff is a brother of Awilda Marshall, deceased, and has an interest in the property, according to the petition.

A. J. Bright and Deaton, Bodey and Bodey are attorneys for the plaintiff.

TO BUILD SHELTER HOUSE NEXT SPRING

In answer to the query as to what amount was raised at the Community Picnic held several weeks ago and why construction work on the shelter house in Shawnee Park was not begun this fall, Mrs. Charles A. Kelble, chairman of the building committee announced Friday that the money has been placed in a bank on interest and now amounts to $584.64.

The building committee recently decided not to start work on the shelter house until spring, when another drive will be made to increase the fund and work then begun.

29, to witness the annual homecoming game of East High with "Chief" Redden's aggregation from Covington, Ky.

With a strenuous work-out Thursday and light signal practice this afternoon, Coaches Curtis and Roberts are optimistic over the coming encounter. At 3:30 Friday afternoon alumni and students will meet on the school campus to prime the players for the big event. This demonstration will be followed by a monster parade through the streets of the city in which the boosters will exhibit the "pop" and enthusiasm that will characterize the Saturday tilt.

From the advance sale of tickets it is evident that a large number of "grid lovers" will greet the "Green and White" when they go on the field.

AUTOS DAMAGED

Automobiles owned by Dr. David E. Spahr, Springfield Pike, and Lawrence O. Tiffany, 232 West Third St., was damaged in a collision on the Springfield Pike near Xenia city limits Thursday night at 9:15 o'clock. No one was injured.

Tiffany was driving a coach to

BILIOUS? DON'T BE!

Biliousness is a symptom, not a disease. A sour, sick, belching, gassy stomach gets that way because of neglected constipation. Ordinary laxatives don't seem to help much, because the liver, the stomach, the spleen, and the intestines, all have to be aided. Constipation slows up the function of and interferes even with the brain's activity.

Blackburn's Casca-Royal Pills arouse the liver, tone up the stomach and intestines, stimulate the glandular secretions, in a pleasant, perfect way. When the internal organs function regularly, away goes biliousness, sour stomach, and indigestion.

Have you a throbbing at the temples, a bad taste in the mouth, halitosis (unpleasant breath), sour, bilious stomach, dark rings under the eyes and an irritable don't-care-languor? Take Blackburn's Casca-Royal Pills. Wake up your ambition and energy and feel good every day. In less than a dozen hours you will be on the "Wellville" road. Forty-five pills—30 cts.—at all drugstores.

last Monday for Kinney's Corner, at Pennyan, on the border line between New York and Pennsylvania, where they attended the unveiling of a monument to Col. Coates Kinney, author of "Rain on the Roof" and other works.

The monument was erected by the Daughters of the American Revolution of Pennyan.

DENIES STOCK SALE VIOLATION OF LAW

CLEVELAND, Oct. 28.—E. D. Grumney, brother of E. L. Grumney, who was arrested in Columbus Thursday on charges of violating the Blue Sky law, for alleged sale of stock certificates in a "perpetual motion" motor concern, today had made a statement here saying that the Grumney proposition was bona fide and that everything would come out all right.

Description of our motor as a "perpetual motion" machine is a misnomer," Grumney said. "We have never taken the term in our sales talk. We have been working on the mechanism for nine years. We have never taken any person's money without the understanding that they could have it returned if dissatisfied."

Reports from Columbus yesterday stated that F. L. Grumney had realized approximately $125,000 through sale of stock certificates in the concern.

STATE IDENTIFIES ROBBER AT TRIAL

BUENOS AIRES, Oct. 28.—Trial of Wilbur Hand, Toledo, charged with complicity in the $175,000 robbery of the Commercial Savings Bank of Galion, resumed for the third time, here today, with state's rebuttal witnesses on the stand.

The five state witnesses, four of them bank employees, positively identified Harry Zillick as one of the robbers, late Thursday. Zillick, also charged with the robbery, is Hand's chief alibi witness. According to Hand's testimony, he and Zillick were playing golf on the Abeyview links at Toledo at the time of the robbery.

CIVIL LEGION WILL HOLD CONVENTION; INVITE GOVERNORS

CINCINNATI, O., Oct. 28.—The "Civil Legion," including all the men and women who served in the non-uniformed branches during the World War, will hold its second annual convention here Nov. 11-12. The Civil Legion membership is made up of all the non-combatant forces engaged in war activities under government supervision and authority, including the governors of the states during the war, members of the war cabinet and congress, national and state councils of defense, selective service boards, Four-Minute Men, American Protective League, Salvation Army, Y. M. C. A., Red Cross, Knights of Columbus, Jewish Welfare Workers and others who ministered to the needs of soldiers in camp or on the field.

Sixteen war governors of as many states have accepted invitations to attend the convention. Speakers include three former governors who were active in wartime work. These are Hon. William L. Harding, war governor of Iowa;

BITTERNESS IN SWEETS

Hon. Richard I. Manning, war governor of South Carolina, and Hon. A. O. Stanley, governor of Kentucky during the conflict. Officers of the Legion include: Joseph T. Cashman, New York, president; J. P. Tansley, Chicago, secretary; Frank G. Najick, Illinois; John L. Bain, Pennsylvania; Thomas J. Meek, New York, and Harry B. Dyne, Indiana, vice-president; and Rt. Rev. James H. Darlington, Harrisburg, Pa. It is expected 3,000 delegates will attend the sessions.

DETROIT—Two men, colored, entered a Detroit candy shop and picked out candy to the value of $7 which they ordered served until they returned to pay for it. "No you don't," said the girl clerk who had been watching one of the men stuff boxes under his coat. She called the police. Explaining in police court one of the men said that he wanted the candy as a farewell present for his sweet heart. Both drew jail sentences.

The Theater

Tired of being known as "Mrs. Ben Hecht" Marie Armstrong Hecht, former wife of Ben Hecht, the famous author of "County Bruga" "Humpty-Dumpty" "Garloyles" and other novels, has struck out for herself to achieve personal fame. When she resolved not to exist at the Warner Theater. All of the in the reflected spotlight on her reviewers on the New York papers famous former husband, Mrs. Hecht was a prominent figure in Chicago society and gave up dances and bridge parties to apply herself to a novel. Before completing the work she decided the story was much better for a play than a book. She destroyed the manuscript and began work on a three-act play. Peter Glenn, dramatist, assisted her in its preparation and when it was completed, it was immediately accepted by the Messrs. Shubert, for production.

The finished work, "Such Is Life" is being rehearsed for the New York stage, while the author is at work on another play. Mrs. Hecht advised the wives of writers to do some sort of creative work of their own. "For me there is no stopping until I have become a famous playwright, and my first play, "Such Is Life" will, I am sure, bring me near that goal."

One of the most enthusiastic receptions tendered a motion picture premiere in New York was tendered Al Jolson in "The Jazz Singer."

"The Lion and the Mouse" Charles Klein's absorbing drama, which was a stage success several years ago, is to be filmed by Warner Brothers. The Warners have placed it on a special list, which means that it is to be made a feature, or extended run, production.

REVENGE IS SWEET HACKENSACK, N. J.—Because he was embittered by the policies of roadhouse proprietors who, he declares, have charged him $150,000 in his time, for their hospitality a man told Hackensack police that he had dedicated his life to getting even. He was arrested while passing a bad check on a roadhouse proprietor. Police declare that he has accomplished a dozen similar transactions. They informed him that this method of revenge was illegal and lodged him in the Hackensack jail.

CHAMPION POTATO EATERS WILL MEET AT CHARDON SHOW

CHARDON, O., Oct. 23.—"Bring on another boiler full of mashed spuds," will be the battle cry of the champion potato eaters of Geauga County at the potato show to be held in Burton and Chardon on November 5.

Twenty dollars in cash awaits the men with the large capacity for Geauga tubers, mashed and seasoned to taste. The time limit on the spud guzzlers is twenty minutes.

Whoever gets away with the biggest mound of churned tubers will be escorted to Cleveland potato show to defend his honors against the world. Rules of the contest adopted by the show committees at Burton and Chardon are: Open to any resident of Geauga County.

Sectional championships will be decided at Chardon and Burton November 5 at noon. County championship to be determined at Burton on the evening of November 5.

Contestants will be furnished with unlimited supplies of mashed potatoes prepared with milk and butter and seasoned to individual taste with salt and pepper. Contestants may drink any amount of water, but no other food or drink will be allowed.

Sectional champions will receive $5. County champion will receive $10. The sectional and county champions will be decided before judges to be named later.

Potato kings of Geauga County, men who are shrew enough to coax a yield of 300 bushels of potatoes per acre out of their soil, will be crowned at a banquet in Burton.

Of five men entered in the contest for membership in the Ohio 300 bushel club, three have qualified for the honor—Reno Howard, of Bainbridge and Archie and Howard Newcomb of Burton. Yields on the farms of Clifford Rossiter and Peter Fritz have not been officially checked by County Agent H. B. Alger, but it is estimated that neither of these crops will qualify for the club.

The champion potato grower and perhaps of the United States, A. C. Ramseyer, of Wayne County, whose yield of 606 bushels per acre was recently harvested will address the potato growers at the Burton banquet.

E. B. Tussing, vegetable specialist of Ohio State University, who began a series of potato selection schools in the county at Chardon Tuesday evening will speak at the banquet.

The Burton banquet is the opening gun in a campaign to enlist every commercial potato grower in Geauga County to get behind the show to be held in Chardon and Burton November 5. Winning exhibits at the county show will compete in the northeastern Ohio potato show in Cleveland, November 14 and 15.

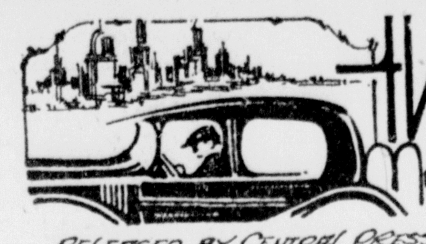

Dr. E. L. Nixon, of the Pennsylvania State college, one of the foremost authorities on potatoes and potato growing has been secured as a judge for the Geauga County shows.

"My Lord!" exploded Beechy. "Are you going to marry a girl who was so damned ornery to you, only this morning, that I've been weeping for you ever since? Are you?"

"I am," said John Moore promptly. "Oh," said Ruth, "I wasn't really."

Beechy gazed at them. "That beats me! When are you thinking of getting married?"

"Well," said John, "we are leaving on that one o'clock train for New York tonight."

"Oh!" Beechy's high, clear yodel sank to a sigh. "Gosh!" he lamented. "Stew was right! Joe had all the luck! All right, old dear! There must be a minister hiding out some place. I'll find him. I'll get you married all right. I'll make the punch myself! Give me the wheel!"

It was a little after five o'clock when the car drew up at the Santa Rita. John Moore sprang down.

"Listen, Beechy," he said. "We've doped it out. If you'll get the parson and rooms and flowers, we'll go after the license and things. But we'll need your car."

"Secrets from Brides, Ruth," said Beechy and drew John Moore a little aside. "What about those fellows who are after you, man?" he asked.

John Moore clapped him on the shoulder and laughed like a boy. "Aw," he said, "forget them. This is my day, Beechy, my day!"

"It is!" he said in awestruck tones. "Good Lord, what a pity! You could wreck the bank at Monte Carlo!"

"Oh, that!" cried John Moore. "Why, man alive, I'm going to marry my girl today!"

"Beat it!" said Beechy. "Wait! Whom do you want at your wedding?"

"Ruth decided that. Just you and Townser for witnesses. It's a shame that Stew isn't here. But it will be better to get her away."

"Right you are. I'll fix things. Hurry to the courthouse to be closed."

"Where's a jeweler's shop?"

"At the corner, there. Wait, have you plenty of money?"

"Traveler's checks. But thanks, old man!"

At the corner John Moore dashed into the jeweler's and briefly out again. "He'll wait for us," he said.

"Now, Juan, the courthouse, please."

Down Congress street, while the daylight fled to the mountain peaks at the foot of it and the street lamps gleamed a pathway through the dusk. The two in the rear seat of the car

They drifted up the aisle of the brilliantly lighted shop and paused before a counter from which an elaborately beehooded and beehorned doll stared at them disdainfully. She felt in every silken founce of her makeup that these people were not seeking a telephone doll.

And she was entirely correct. John's hand tightened on Ruth's arm as he gazed down at her with an expression sufficiently denoting that "What color do I like for girl's clothes?" he was saying. "I don't believe that I ever noticed girl's clothes until two days ago. But since Tubutama I like eyes and skies and things to match. Let's make 'em blue."

The telephone doll was moved to one side. A dark-eyed, bright-eyed, slender little lady stood behind the counter surveying the man and the girl. She had seen all kinds.

"Is there something for you?" she asked.

"Pine," said John. "We want a lot of things."

"This is the fancy goods," said the little lady doubtfully. She already knew what they wanted.

"Exactly," said John Moore. "We want fancy ones."

"Oh, no," expostulated Ruth. "She means yarns and things like that. We," she appealed to the little bright-eyed lady, "we want clothes."

"Blue ones," put in John. "Oh, and we ought to get one white one, shouldn't we?"

Ruth looked helplessly at the little bright-eyed lady. The throbbing excitement would not let her think clearly. "There are so many things," she said vaguely.

"A white one—with some of that floaty stuff," John went on.

"They come boxed now—velvets," said the little lady, but she was watching the girl. "Tell me, in a general way—"

"Everything for tonight, and until we reach New York, in a week."

"Make it twice," said John. "We haven't even a toothbrush."

The little lady glanced his way. "If you'll go down to that end of the store, sir, you'll find everything for yourself; and I'll go with the young lady."

"But I'm going with her, too!"

"But you can't!" said Ruth, helplessly.

"Why not? Who says so? I'm going."

LEGION AUXILIARY PRESIDENT SERVED DURING WORLD WAR

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Oct. 23.—The new national president of the American Legion Auxiliary, Mrs. Irene McIntyre Walbridge, of Petersburgh, N. H., served with the Salvation Army on four fronts in the World War. For a year and a half, in company with her sister, she established and maintained huts within the lines with the following divisions: First, Seventh, and Forty-Second, and the National Guard of New England, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Ohio and the middle west, as well as the National Army divisions of New York and the Gulf and Pacific States.

Caught under the barrage in the first important engagement of the Americans, and 254 days under enemy fire, she twice received the unusual distinction of a personal citation in army orders: "Under fire of high explosive and gas, she established and conducted huts that were noted for their good cheer and hospitality. Her courage and devotion to her voluntary work was a splendid inspiration to the troops." Through regular army channels, she was recommended for the Distinguished Service Cross, an honor it would have required a special act of Congress to accord.

RUTH ELDER STARTS FLIGHT TO PARIS; WELCOME PREPARED

Military Machines Will Meet Plane Near- ing Paris

PARIS, Oct. 28.—After spending the night on a train for Spain, Ruth Elder, American Girl trans-Atlantic flyer, and her pilot, George Haldeman, hopped off from the Bayonne airfield for Paris at 12:55 o'clock, according to a long distance telephone message from Bayonne this afternoon.

Miss Elder and Haldeman, who had arrived at Madrid from Lisbon at 2:16 o'clock yesterday afternoon, went to Bayonne by rail last night.

They were expected to reach Le Bourget late this afternoon, although airfield officials said that fog might delay their arrival. Arrangements were made to keep beacon lights burning and to send up rockets if it is seen that a landing cannot be made until after dark.

Several military machines were held in readiness to hop off to meet the Poetz machine bearing the two Americans as soon as it neared Le Bourget.

American Consul Samuel Park, stationed at Biarritz, left this morning by automobile to meet Miss Elder at Hendaye on the Franco-Spanish frontier.

Sidney Viet, Paris representative of the American Aeronautical Association, received word from Miss Elder that she would leave Paris on November 5, sailing aboard the Aquitania.

Plans for the entertainment of the girl flyer include a banquet by the "Vieilles Tiges," with Minister of Commerce Rokanowski presiding.

Miss Elder planned to visit the tomb of the unknown soldier tomorrow, and to call upon Madame Nungesser, mother of Capt. Charles Nungesser, who lost his life while attempting a non-stop flight from Paris to New York.

According to a police report, the Negroes boldly removed the stringed instrument in its shipping case, as employees of the auditorium looked on, loaded it upon a light truck and drove away.

CHAMBERLIN MAY BE OBTAINED TO PILOT GRAYSON AIRPLANE

Aviatrix Will Ask Columbia Flyer To Fly "Dawn"

OLD ORCHARD BEACH, Me., Oct. 28.—Clarence D. Chamberlin, the intrepid American aviator who carried Charles A. Levine overseas on the epochal long distance flight from New York to Germany, may be drafted for the Old Orchard to Copenhagen, Denmark hop, it was learned today.

Mrs. Frances Wilson Grayson, who has tried three times unsuccessfully to make Denmark in the Sikorsky amphibian plane "The Dawn," announced that she was going to Boston this afternoon, and it was learned that she had an engagement to meet Chamberlin at a Boston hotel.

Whether Chamberlin will be asked or has consented to take the place of Pilot Wilmer L. Stultz or whether the overseas flyer is to act only in an advisory capacity was not known. Stultz, however, has announced his intention of quitting the Grayson expedition owing to a disagreement between commander and pilot, and the conclusion here was that Chamberlin was to take Stultz's place at the controls of "The Dawn."

Before leaving for Boston, Mrs. Grayson admitted that she was going to keep an engagement with Chamberlin.

"Are you going to ask him to replace Pilot Stultz?" she was asked.

"I value Mr. Chamberlin's judgment very highly," she replied.

Asked if weather reports indicate good trans-oceanic flying weather, Mrs. Grayson replied: "It looks dubious for further flights this year."

CRITICISM OF BOTH DEFENSE BRANCHES STIRS WASHINGTON

Think Preparedness To Be Major Issue At Next Session

WASHINGTON, Oct. 28.—The administration has become embroiled in a row over the condition of national defense that threatens to make the coming session of congress full of fireworks, with "Coolidge economy" the target for heavy cannonading.

A swarm of inquiring letters descending upon government officials from all parts of the country, criticism from within the army and navy and demands by members of congress for facts, indicated a greater interest in the question of preparedness than at any time since the World War.

The case of Rear-Admiral Thomas P. Magruder, who was summarily deposed from his Philadelphia command for criticism of the navy and who was promptly deposed and who was promptly deposed, promised to assume greater proportions when he comes here on November 5 "for discipline."

Administration circles were seething with discussion of the criticisms of the state of the national defense by Assistant Secretary of the Navy T. Douglas Robinson and Assistant Secretary of War Hanford MacNider. Nor was criticism of army housing conditions by Major-General Summerall, recalled from a Pacific coast speaking tour, forgotten.

Predictions were freely made by members of congress that preparedness would be a major issue, taking its place in the coming session with tax reduction and farm and flood relief.

"We should have a strong army and navy and a great air fleet," declared Sen. Plafie, (R) of South Carolina. "This question is going to get considerable attention in congress, and I will oppose any attempt to 'gag' officers who tell the country the truth about conditions."

"Preparedness is bound to become one of the major questions, if not the paramount issue, before congress," said Rep. Britten, (R) of Illinois, ranking member of the House Naval Affairs Committee.

"The failure of the Geneva Arms Conference and the refusal of England to give us parity on the seas cannot be ignored."

Britten also said he would not allow Magruder to be "gagged."

With leaders of the "big navy" bloc demanding a five-year ship building program costing from $250,000,000 to $300,000,000 and exponents of aviation declaring that the $150,000,000 army aviation program is inadequate, increasing pressure upon the administration's economy program became evident.

President Coolidge, by his quick refusal to override the navy department in the Magruder case, indicated that he would enforce the policy restraining public protests by army and navy officers. While he let it be known that the budget would carry increases for the army and navy, preparedness advocates expect the budget to be a disappointment from their viewpoint.

Rumors that Assistant Secretary of War MacNider would be forced to resign under pressure quickened with his speech at Chattanooga charging that the army's ammunition supply is being allowed to dwindle beyond the danger point.

Friction between MacNider and his chiefs on other grounds has long been rumored in army circles.

Meanwhile, Secretary of Navy Wilbur apparently had acquired a new case of dissension with Assistant Secretary Robinson, who declared in a Navy Day speech at Philadelphia that "bureaucrats" of the department were responsible for the "mediocre condition of the navy."

Whether Chamberlin will be asked or has consented to take the place of Pilot Wilmer L. Stultz or whether the overseas flyer is to act only in an advisory capacity was not known. Stultz, however, has announced his intention of quitting the Grayson expedition owing to a disagreement between commander and pilot, and the conclusion here was that Chamberlin was to take Stultz's place at the controls of "The Dawn."

MYSTERIOUS BLAST AND FIRE THROWS CHICAGO INTO PANIC

CHICAGO, Oct. 28.—A mysterious blast followed by fire in a five-story building directly across Clark Street from the City Hall and County Building, threw downtown Chicago into a panic early today.

The wrecked building stood between two theaters, the Erlanger and The Four Cohans. Both were threatened by flames. The fire did little damage as the four upper floors of the building were unoccupied. The ground floor is an Italian restaurant.

Police are checking the ruins for possible victims and to ascertain the origin of the blast. The fire started on the fourth floor.

Bits of plate glass windows were thrown across the street by the blast.

WILL RETURN BARTLETT HERE TO FACE ROBBERY AFFIDAVIT

Prosecutor Will Ask Extradition Of West Virginia Suspect—Father Of Suspect Held Here Visits Him

Extradition proceedings were started Friday by Prosecutor J. Carl Marshall, preliminary to an attempt to return Roy Bartlett, 25, Clarksburg, W. Va., to Xenia from Clarksburg on a charge of robbery, in connection with the hold-up of The Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea Co. branch store, Main and West Sts., last Saturday night by two youthful bandits.

Requisition papers were prepared and turned over to Sheriff Ohmer Tate, who will go to Columbus this week to obtain the signature of Governor Vic Donahay. The requisition will be on the governor of West Virginia, who must have the papers before they become valid.

Bartlett, identified as one of the bandits who held up the grocery store, is under arrest at Clarksburg. It is not known whether he will fight an attempt to return him to Xenia, but authorities intend to be prepared against such a contingency.

Xenia authorities will make the trip to Clarksburg as soon as possible.

The affidavit against Bartlett charging robbery, was signed Friday by Police Chief M. E. Graham and also by J. A. Wipert, manager of the branch store, who, with his wife, were victims of the hold-up. The bandits obtained an undetermined amount of cash, gaining entrance to the store after it had been locked up for the night, on the pretext of making a purchase.

Bartlett was partially identified as one of the bandits by Wipert through a photograph found in the possession of E. H. Sayre, 26, Clarksburg, W. Va., held as a suspect in connection with the robbery.

Sayre identified Bartlett as having been his companion on an automobile tour over the country. Police originally believed the suspect's name was Sayre but he has since been identified as Sayre.

Sayre was removed to the County Jail Friday. No charge has been placed against him but he will be held pending the return of Bartlett to Xenia.

Sayre's father Jasper Sayre, made an unexpected trip to Xenia from Clarksburg, Thursday and visited his son at Police Headquarters. He returned home Thursday night without making an effort to obtain his son's release, but confirmed police reports that the youth had served four years in the state penitentiary at Moundsville, W. Va. for hold-up, before being released a year ago.

ALLEGED BROTHERS MURDERED WIVES AS RESULT OF JEALOUSY

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 28.—With Joseph Molty in jail, his brother, Henry Molty, was sought on land and sea today in connection with the murder of their wives, whose mutilated bodies were found stuffed in a trunk in the French quarter district here.

Henry, according to his brother, Joseph, was jealous over attentions his wife had accepted from other men. He killed her and then covered the crime killed Joseph's wife, cutting the bodies to pieces so they could be stuffed into the trunk, police said.

CORRECT NUMBER OF MISSING UNKNOWN AS RESCUED ARRIVE

Many Injured Among Survivors—912 Now Landed

RIO JANEIRO, Oct. 28.—Dazed and horror-stricken by the frightful experience they have passed through, 912 survivors of the sunken Italian liner Principessa Mafalda have arrived in the ports of Bahia and Rio Janeiro.

The exact number of missing is still unknown, but 346 persons have not been landed, although the offices of the Navigazione Generale Italiana still claim that the death list will be far below this figure.

The Dutch steamer Alhena with 531 passengers and seamen of the Principessa Mafalda came into port early this morning and began discharging her cargo of excited and harrowed survivors, and the French steamer Formosa followed shortly with 353 others.

Both ships carried many injured survivors. Ambulances and physicians met them. The survivors were removed to hospitals, and hotels and given food and drink, for they had been nearly two days huddled and jammed aboard the overloaded rescue steamers with insufficient food.

Journalists were forbidden to interview arriving survivors, but alongside the ships it was still possible to hear the moans and cries of injured and nerve-exhausted survivors. Some of the survivors were anxious to describe the terrible scenes they had witnessed.

They told of a sea of floating humanity, some people fighting for their lives as they were tossed about by the waves, whereas others had given up the battle, and their bodies, thrown hither and thither, impeded the efforts of those still afloat.

One report that came from the survivors was that the first engineer had committed suicide as soon as he learned that the Mafalda was sinking.

Reports of sharks attacking the victims of the disaster, first reported in International News Service dispatches from Bahia, were repeated today by some of the passengers of the ship aboard the arriving rescue boats.

One survivor, Senor Cassek, an Argentine banker, says that the ship surgeon of the Mafalda lost his life after he had been saved and picked up by the Formosa. He states that the surgeon, when he remembered he had left all of his money in his cabin on the sinking ship, left the rescue ship and returned to the Mafalda to get his money and was never seen again.

VIOLENT QUAKE SHOCKS ARE FELT ADMITS SLAYING

AKRON, Ohio, Oct. 28.—Police say Peter Farenzo, 67, Aultman, Ohio, has confessed killing Mrs. Elizabeth Burke, 39, of Aultman, following a quarrel in South Akron Wednesday night.

Farenzo was arrested late Thursday by city detectives after a search started when the woman was found with her throat slashed.

"NOW TOO LATE"

CLEVELAND, Oct. 28.—"The time has passed for Ohio coal operators to consider any further dickering with the United Mine Workers' Union," was the substance of a statement issued here today by the Ohio coal operators association in answer to a statement from Columbus Thursday attributed to Lee Hall, president of the Ohio U. M. W., offering to negotiate a wage scale to apply to Ohio mines.

HUSBAND CHARGES WIFE WITH ROBBERY

CHICAGO, Oct. 28.—Mrs. Annette Stein was to appear in police court today to answer a charge of larceny preferred by her wealthy husband, Joseph Stein, former president of the State Commercial and Savings Bank.

While hundreds of travelers last night milled about the LaSalle St. station, Mrs. Stein was taken from a New York-bound train and lodged in the Clark St. police station. The technical charge against her is theft of her husband's diamonds.

Mrs. Stein said she was on the point of fleeing to New York after incurring heavy gambling losses. Her husband, however, said her real purpose was to elope with "another man."

"This was really to have been an elopement," Stein explained. "I am certain there was a man on that train with her. He goes under the name of Frank Rabb. I have had the police wire to have him taken off at Toledo."

The former bank president said he had instructed his lawyer to draw up a divorce bill, which, he said, will be filed some time today.

"If this other man really loves my wife, he can have her," said Stein. "I'll even be best man at their wedding."

Mrs. Stein admitted she had lost heavily at cards and that she had pawned her jewels to satisfy her debts, but denied the elopement charges with Robb.

DUVALL BEQUEATHS CHAIR BUT COUNCIL PICKS OWN CHOICE

Mayor's Oppointee Barred From Office—Litigation Looms

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Oct. 28.—Judge Joseph M. Milner of Marion County Superior Court today issued a temporary order restraining Ira M. Holmes, who was bequeathed the mayoralty of Indianapolis by John L. Duvall, from attempting to occupy the office.

A hearing on the order was scheduled for Saturday.

The order makes Claude E. Negley, elected mayor by city council, mayor, at least for today.

However, Holmes was undismayed in his pursuit of the seat. Arriving at the mayor's office at 4 a. m., with Mrs. Holmes and Wayne Emmelman, whom Holmes appointed city controller, Holmes held down the mayor's seat.

When the pangs of hunger assailed him at 7:45 a. m., he retired for breakfast, first leading Mrs. Holmes to the mayor's chair as a precautionary measure.

Shortly afterwards, Negley and Frank Cones, the Negley city controller, arrived and went into Duvall's private office.

But Mrs. Holmes continued to occupy the office.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Oct. 28.—John L. Duvall today had passed from the stage of Indianapolis municipal politics, through his resignation, while two pretenders began an active battle to form city governments to succeed the Duvall administration.

Ira M. Holmes made the announcement early today of the resignations of Duvall and of Mrs. Duvall as city controller. According to Holmes, Duvall appointed him to the city controller position just before Duvall resigned secretly yesterday.

Claude E. Negley, president of the Common Council, was elected temporary mayor by that body late yesterday, on the ground that Duvall's conviction on charges of making pre-election promises had removed him from office.

As the result, two city governments were being formed today and were to attempt to function.

Holmes stated he would appoint Wayne Emmelman, secretary of the Marion County Republican Committee, as city controller and under former city controller, and would take place later.

Negley who was sworn in as mayor by Miss Margaret Inman, deputy city clerk, last night, today announced appointment of Frank Cones, president of the Board of Public Works, as city controller.

Joseph L. Hogue, city controller under former Mayor Law, Shank, who preceded Duvall in office, and Walter Meyers, Democratic candidate who was defeated by Duvall, also were planning action today to gain the reins of city government.

Both claims are based on the supposition Duvall never was mayor, on account of irregularities in his election.

For the first time in Indianapolis history a woman was mayor yesterday, though only for the scratch of a pen, when Duvall resigned his wife became mayor. She immediately appointed Holmes, then tendered her resignation.

The change which gave Indianapolis two city governments came after a night replete with dramatic surprises. Friends of Negley, unaware that the mayor had resigned, spent the night seeking a superior court justice, for a writ to oust Duvall. A police squad loyal to Duvall guarded the offices in the City Hall from early yesterday afternoon against encroachment by Negley supporters, and continued on the job in support of Holmes.

However, Police Chief Claude Worley, was said to be aligned with the faction supporting Negley's claim.

Holmes, a prominent criminal attorney of Indianapolis, headed the defense staff of D. C. Stephenson, during the ex-Klan dragon's trial at Noblesville for the murder of Miss Madge Oberholtzer.

SEATTLE, Wash., Oct. 28.—Reunited, Walter J. Hill, Montana millionaire, and his wife, Mildred Richardson Hill, former toilet beauty, were in Seattle today on their "second honeymoon."

Hill showed no disposition whatsoever to discuss his plans. In fact he was exceedingly gruff when questioned.

"No, I don't care to see anyone," he said. "Neither do I care to talk to anyone. Life seems to be one interruption after another."

No further information was forthcoming from Hill other than the reluctant statement that he and his wife expected to remain here for several days. He let it be known, that reporters could make him happier by removing them selves far, far away from this self.

DAYTON MAN KILLED WHEN AUTO STRIKES FREIGHT AT OSBORN

Jacob H. Hobstetter Is Victim—Companion Not Seriously Hurt

Jacob H. Hobstetter, 40, 9 Wisteria Drive, Dayton, vice president of the American Manufacturing Co., that city, was instantly killed about 4 o'clock Thursday afternoon when the auto he was driving crashed into an I. C. and E. traction freight on the Springfield Pike crossing, north of Osborn.

His companion, Arthur Bates, 42, Nelson Road, Vandalia, is in Miami Valley Hospital with minor lacerations and bruises about the body and is not seriously hurt.

Both men were hurled clear of the automobile when it struck the traction freight train, consisting of the regular freight car and two trailers, enroute to Springfield. Marks where the tires of the automobile had skidded, showed that Hobstetter applied the brakes some distance from the crossing. The auto crashed into the freight between the second and third cars.

Coroner Frank M. Chambliss was called to the scene of the accident and viewed Hobstetter's body. Death was caused by a fractured skull and both Hobstetter's legs were severed between the knees and hips and his left hand was also severed. He received two deep cuts in his chin.

Coroner Chambliss ordered the auto occupied by the two men taken to an Osborn garage where the brakes will be tested. He was unable to get in communication with the operators of the traction freight, which proceeded to Springfield after the accident, until Friday.

Hobstetter was widely known in Dayton, where he moved twenty-two years ago from Pomeroy, O.

NATIONAL GUARD PLANES SENT TO COLORADO STRIKE SCENE

DENVER, Oct. 28.—Three National Guard aeroplanes were ordered today to the strike zone of the coal miners in southern Colorado by Governor William H. Adams.

Machine guns, bombs and reserve ammunition will be placed on board and will be used to prevent riots.

Reserve supplies of gasoline will be carried on the planes so that no landings will be necessary. Air headquarters will be established at Pueblo.

Industrial paralysis was predicted to be in the immediate future today. Announcement made by the Colorado Fuel & Iron Company stated that one-third of their plant at Pueblo would have to be shut down for lack of coal, throwing out of work 2,000 men. It was also stated if the strike continued for any great length of time the entire plant would be run out of coal.

The announcement of the C. F. & I. is considered by officials only a forerunner of what may be a complete industrial tieup in Colorado should the strike continue.

COMMISSION HEARS MERCHANTS ASK TO BAR OUTSIDE BILLS

General discussion of four subjects of public interest featured the regular City Commission meeting Thursday night, but no definite action was taken on any question.

A committee from the Xenia Retail Merchants Association, composed of Thorb Charters, and David Cherry, expressed hope, on behalf of local merchants, that the commission would co-operate in any legal way in an effort to prevent the circulation of hand bills advertising outside agencies.

Commissioners are believed committed to a decision to refuse any request for a license to authorize free distribution of advertising circulars from merchants outside the city. No application for a permit has been made.

Boulevard lighting was also a topic of discussion. Commissioners understand that merchants on W. Main St. have tentatively planned to erect boulevard lights in front of their places of business at their own expense and if the plan is carried out, the example is expected to be followed by other merchants.

A suggestion that Green St. be widened to relieve traffic congestion, originally brought up at a meeting of the Kiwanis Club, was also discussed informally.

City Manager S. O. Hale was instructed to investigate the advisability and expense of erecting street signs at corner intersections. Personal representatives of two firms, which sell such signs, were present at the meeting.

The signs designating city streets would be erected on an iron pole on brackets at the top. Manager Hale intends to inquire into the probable cost and obtain data on about how many signs would be needed. His figures will be presented at the next commission meeting.

Cold Bathing

C.—Yes, cold baths are excellent for toning up the skin and improving the circulation—therefore the health. If the reaction is good, if you do not react well, you might just rub your body with a towel dipped in cold water, or splash your chest and shoulders with it.

In taking cold baths or showers, you must be careful to see that the room is warm, and your body, too, do not stay under the cold shower too long. Rub yourself vigorously afterwards. (This gives you some good general exercise, too.)

Don't slip in the tub and break a couple of ribs. I had that unholly little accident once. My word! I can't imagine anything worse than a broken rib. If you didn't have to breathe, it wouldn't be so bad.

The importance of Calcium in Diet
We know that calcium (lime) is an element of fundamental importance for the body and that it plays a major role in bone and teeth formation. It is also highly important for the blood and tissues.

The American diet is usually deficient in this most necessary element. However, even though plenty of calcium-bearing foods are eaten, the calcium may not be absorbed properly unless the diet contains sufficient vitamins and other minerals. So don't think that you are getting enough calcium by simply adding milk (which is very high in this element) to a diet which is deficient in greens and other vegetables and fruits, and unbalanced otherwise. The fact that sometimes children who are getting plenty of milk with its high supply of calcium will still develop rickets shows that other factors are necessary to cause the proper absorption of it. (Sunlight is very important, and cod liver oil.)

Milk contains more calcium than any other food. (Children should have at least three glasses, and adults two.) Other foods high in this element are: cheese (very high, for it is concentrated milk), egg yolks, almonds. Most fruits and vegetables are also fairly rich in calcium.

How Soon Is Fat Deposited as Fat in the Body?

How soon is fat deposited as fat in the body? Just as soon as it is digested—within a few hours—depending upon the rate of digestion of the foods. Now when this fat is deposited, a part is burned for energy needs, a part may be transformed to form part of cell membranes. AND, if there is any excess after this, it is going to be stored as fat itself, and if you have any excess fat in the tissues already—Woo is you. (And all other foods in excess of the needs will also be deposited as fat—excess starches and sugars especially.)

The fat gained from excess food

requires a lot of water in its making, so the excess weight gained may be three or four times the amount of the food!

Paraffin for Wrinkles

Miss J.—No, is is extremely unwise and even dangerous to have injections of paraffin into the skin under your eyes, to fill out your wrinkles. The paraffin may form various sized and shaped lumps and may even cause cancer in later life. Paraffin has been discarded long ago for this purpose because of its danger.

If your skin is so bad that it disfigures you, go to see a surgeon skilled in plastic surgery and get his advice. If you do not know of any in your town, ring up your County Medical society.

THE IDEAL WINTER-TIME GAS

At no increase in price!

THE first bite of winter! With choke drawn out and your foot on the starter of your machine, you find the motor "sluggish," and it "spits"—backfires—for the first few blocks on the way down town. You use the choke again, force raw gas into the combustion chambers and the motor picks up, but the oil in your crankcase is thus diluted and lubrication is materially reduced in effectiveness!

You'll be glad to know about "Loreco 88," the motor fuel that begins to vaporize perfectly at a temperature more than 40 degrees lower than that called for in specifications for ordinary gasolines.

By careful development of intricate refining processes,

"Loreco 88," so named because of its initial boiling point of 88 degrees, gives you the unusual combination of instant starting in cold weather, perfectly controlled combustion under high temperatures after your machine is under way, and an abundance of power and mileage.

All the elements of a really fine motor fuel that have made Loreco Gasoline famous are retained in "Loreco 88," a perfectly balanced fuel that forms a dry vapor in the combustion chambers of your motor and has the additional advantage of quick, easy starting in coldest weather.

No increase in price over ordinary gasoline.

RECEPTION TENDERED REV. AND MRS. WASHBURN

Cordial greetings were extended to the new pastor, the Rev. L. A. Washburn and his wife, by the members of Trinity M. E. Church at the annual congregational dinner held in the church parlors Thursday evening at 6:30 o'clock. A delicious menu was served at long tables which were laid in the Sunday School room.

Preceding the dinner hour and while the meal was served, delightful music was furnished by the Sunday School orchestra under the direction of Miss Marjorie Street.

Following the dinner a program of informal and entertaining toasts was enjoyed. Mrs. William Maceo Wilson, filling the place as toastmaster in a most delightful way. The program opened with the presentation to the new pastor and his wife of each of the heads of the various departments of the church work. As each was presented a clever rhyme describing their work was read by Mrs. William McGeevey. Those on the list were Mrs. James Canada, president of the Ladies Aid; Mrs. H. H. Conklin, chairman of the dinner committee; Mrs. J. J. Stout, president of the Lal Bagh Missionary Society; Mrs. E. P. Hamlin, president of the Women's Home Missionary Society; Mrs. Brant Bell, president of the Sara M. Chew Missionary Society; Miss Emma LaMar, president of the Queen Esther Society; Mrs. George Street, Children's Missionary Secretary and Mr. George Street, Superintendent of the Sunday School. The verses to Mrs. McGeevey, leader of the choir, and Miss Juanita Rankin, the organist, were set to music and were sung by Mr. Leigh Bickett. Verses were also read in tribute to the orchestra and in greeting to the Rev. and Mrs. W. N. Shank, of the First M. E. Church, who were guests at the dinner.

Greetings from the official Board of the church to the Rev. and Mrs. Washburn were extended by Mr. S. Milton McKay and responses were made by both the Rev. and Mrs. Washburn. A cleverly arranged little stunt by the bobbled haired and long haired women of the congregation furnished much amusement. The bobbled haired contingent was introduced by Mrs. Homer Spahr in a clever original poem and Mrs. Minor Monroe amusingly introduced the long haired women. Both groups sang entertaining little songs. Eckerle, "Excuses" also written in original rhyme, a toast, "The Reason Why" by Mr. Boyce, of the Central High School and an informal talk by the Rev. Mr. Shank were also enjoyable features of the program.

A tribute to three charter members of the congregation who had passed away during the year, Mrs. S. B. LeSourd, Mrs. Sara M. Chew and Mr. W. F. Trader was given by Mrs. Wilson who read the following verse, written by Mrs. Chew for a similar occasion, and read by Mrs. Wilson as Mrs. Chew's message to the congregation.

"If I could cast a charm about thy way
And bring thee all the good my heart would choose,
Thy life would be one long sweet summer day
And naught of all its blessings would refuse."

The program closed with the singing of "Blest Be The Tie That Binds." More than two hundred members of the congregation were present at the enjoyable affair.

Mr. John Edwin Bradfute, who is county agent at Hancock County, Findlay, O., accompanied his wife and little son to the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. O. E. Bradfute, here, and left immediately for Columbus, to attend the county agents' meeting.

HOW TO SPEND A NICKEL

Just 5c Will Bring Your Taste
Some Downright Smoking Pleasure

Right off the bat, we want to say that a good nickel smoke is hard to believe in. No doubt you've been disappointed time and again by cigars that claimed to be "worth really more." Forget the past. Here's one cigar that actually sold at a higher price for years! And only because of the volume sales it built up then, can we sell it now for a nickel!

The name? It's Havana Ribbon. And it's a real cigar, men, regardless of price. The kind you'd pick on smoking merit alone. It's so fragrant and smooth and mellow—made of ripe tobacco.

But prove it for yourself. Drop in today at the nearest cigar store and ask for a Havana Ribbon. Toss down a nickel and take one fresh from the box. And just watch yourself smile the first blue puff you blow!

LISTEN VOTERS

Don't Be Hoodwinked!

There is a vast amount of false, malicious, and ridiculous political propaganda being published in some of our newspapers, concerning Senate Bill No. 72, known as the Marshall Bill.

It must be manifest to all that the Greene County Dry Federation cannot attempt to answer all these so-called arguments and misrepresentations in detail through the columns of our county papers, as we are forced to pay advertising rates for all space.

Our opponents evidently know that the facts are clearly in our favor and that practically their only hope lies in deceiving the voters.

We are sure that every fair-minded voter resents such base methods being used to hoodwink him into voting against his own and his country's best interests.

Is it not perfectly clear to you that if our opponents had a clear case against the Marshall Bill, it would not be necessary for them to misrepresent the Bill nor malign its author, the Anti-Saloon League, the churches and ministers, world famed evangelists, the Farmer's Grange and all other dry organizations that are sponsoring this bill.

There is an old adage "Give a man rope enough, and he will hang himself." We therefore, ignore this political rot and move quietly and steadily on, confident of victory, ever strengthened and encouraged by the righteousness and integrity of our cause.

For the benefit of any honest doubter, we publish the following statement of Mr. McDonald, State Prohibition Commissioner.

By B. F. McDONALD, State Prohibition Commissioner

I wish to say that I favor the adoption of the Marshall Bill for at least three specific reasons.

FIRST, that it will aid generally in the enforcement of law. SECONDLY, that its adoption is an absolute necessity to the enforcement of law in some of the counties of the state.

THIRDLY, that the law will not only be self-sustaining, but will be revenue producing.

As to the first, following Judge Taft's decisions in the Tumey case, at the state prohibition headquarters, there was noted almost instant reaction, noticeable that the bootleggers had assumed a more bold and defiant attitude toward the law and that attitude has continued up to the present time. In the event the Marshall Bill is defeated we firmly expect a still more defiant attitude upon the part of the law violator. It was perfectly natural that this increased defiance of the law should follow because the Tumey decision practically disarmed of authority not only the two thousand to three thousand justices of the peace and mayors of the state, but also, possibly double that number of constables, marshals and deputy marshals.

ENCOURAGED VIOLATORS

To take from the enforcement of law in the state that number of officials naturally, I say, has encouraged the violator, and to say that it has not is too absurd for discussion. Equally absurd is the statement that to reinvest this army of officials with proper authority to enforce the law will not aid and will not discourage the law violator. Isn't it strange logic, that at a time when it is claimed that the crime has been increasing, that anyone should even suggest seriously that the remedy lies in withdrawing from the enforcement of law several thousand law enforcement officials? The very fact that almost the entire opposition to the Marshall Bill consists of wet propagandists, bootleggers and their sympathizers should in itself be sufficient proof that despite their statements to the contrary they realize that the Marshall Bill will be an obstacle in their way and an aid in the enforcement of the law. The adoption of the Marshall Bill will discourage the bootlegger and aid generally in the enforcement of the law.

As to the second reason, the Tumey decision has left all enforcement outside large cities to our Probate and Common Pleas Courts, and in at least four counties in Ohio these courts have informed us plainly they would not hear these cases, that we should not file these cases in their courts and that if we did the cases would be dismissed. The wet propagandists and opponents of the Marshall Bill say that we should mandamus the courts and force them to hear these cases, but I ask what can any sane person expect in the way of law enforcement from any court that has to be mandamus to perform its duty? I say the adoption of the Marshall Bill in such county is a necessity, if chaos in law enforcement is to be avoided.

AS TO REVENUE

As a third reason I say the Marshall Bill, if adopted, will not only be self-sustaining but will add to the coffers of the state and counties many hundreds of thousands of dollars. In support of that statement I need but refer to the hundreds of thousands of dollars collected from bootleggers and turned over to the state treasury by the court at Rocky River, in Cuyahoga county, and the court at Milford, in Hamilton county, two courts about which in my judgment there has never been any justifiable criticism. The Marshall Bill, if adopted, will, just as the State Prohibition Department has done, and is doing, return to the treasury of state and county ten dollars for every one expended.

I favor the adoption of the Marshall Bill for the reason that it will lessen the burdens of the taxpayer at the expense of the bootlegger and general law violator.

In addition to the above reasons I believe that the farmer, and rural citizen is entitled to the protection and advantages of a local court as fully and completely as is the citizen of the city.

MEETS ALL OBJECTIONS

This bill meets the objections made by the U. S. Supreme Court in the Tumey case. When adopted the accused can no longer charge that his constitutional right to have a fair and impartial trial has been invaded, for the reason that the costs of the case are paid by the county regardless of the outcome of the trial.

It is argued that the officials, the magistrates, constables, etc., will file and prosecute unwarranted cases in order that they might receive the maximum of fees. This argument is refuted by the experience in the Fish and Game Department where an appeals and while that appropriation has been made for several years, never at any time has the whole amount been consumed and the Legislature reduced the appropriation, ostensibly for the reason that the same was not being used. Anyway, objection fades when the bill provides, as it does, that before the fees can be paid out the same must be approved by "either the prosecuting attorney of the county or the attorney-general or by the chief supervisor of or an examiner under the Bureau of Inspection and Supervision of Public Office."

Furthermore, any unwarranted arrests or prosecutions would soon result in civil suits against the officers and their bondsmen.

We think the bill guards well against any such violation. Finally I wish to say that in my judgment the proportion of justices of the peace, and mayors who fall honorably to live up to their oath of office is no greater, if as great, as those holding positions of probate and common pleas judges.

SPOILING THRILLS

The reason why the track events which used to draw thousands to the Greek stadia holds no kick for the modern public compared to that contained in a prize fight or football game is revealed by W. O. McGeehan writing in "Vanity Fair."

"You can not be thrilled," points out the famous sports editor, "over a foot race and compare the winner to Hermes when the timers announce that he ran the distance a second and a half behind the record set by Bibbets of Yale three years before in the intercollegiate meet. You cannot compare a weight thrower to Fin McCool, the Irish Giant, tossing a section of the Giants Causeway Engleward, when the man with the tape measure tells you that the cast is three feet shy of the record made at the last Olympics."

On the other hand, says Mr. McGeehan, every prize fighter is a John L. Sullivan to his age and locality; every football star a Red Grange to his college. There is no way of comparing him with the heroes that have gone before.

According to the writer, statistics in athletic achievement are depressing and a deterrent to the modern Homers of the sport pages. "For the cold figures show," he writes, "that, in every line of athletic endeavor that can be recorded in regard to time or distance, every known athletic record has been bettered within the last 20 years and, of course, the end is not yet. With the use of the stop-watch and the tape measure, achievements can be recorded in cold figures which cramp the style of the writers and make the track and field meet one of the least interesting of athletic contests."

CHANGING FOR BETTER

"We are living today in what is probably the most irreligious epoch of all history," declares Aldous Huxley, brilliant young English novelist.

The reason for the present decay of religion, explains Mr. Huxley, lies in the fact that the partially educated masses have just discovered, some forty years behind the time, the materialism of nineteenth-century science. "However," continues the English writer, "the fact that many people are now without a religion does not mean that they are without some substitute for a religion; their religious feelings and intuitions find vent in forms that are not immediately recognizable as religious."

Chief among these substitutes for religion which provide some outlet for the religious instinct, according to Mr. Huxley, are extreme nationalism, particularly where the State is weak and oppressed; revolutionary democracy; ritualistic organizations; modern art for art's sake; asceticism and anti-sex fanaticism; and big business. Doctors, lawyers and artists, he points out, have taken the place of the priests, the confessors and spiritual advisors.

In spite of the conditions he describes, he sees no reason to believe that the present condition of irreligion is a permanent one. He says, "None of the substitutes is more than very partially adequate. A religion covers all the intellectual and emotional ground. It offers an explanation of the universe; it consoles, it provides its devotees with uplifting, God-creating rites. No substitutes can do as much. No religious surrogate can completely satisfy all the religious needs of men. The scientific men, it is significant to note, are rapidly abandoning their materialistic position. What they think now, the masses will doubtless be thinking a generation hence."

America is said to be the richest country in the world, but you would never know it when you get out with a subscription paper.

The Way of the World

CLAPTRAP

Dean Inge, St. Paul's cathedral, London, remarks that government "of, by and for the people" is claptrap. It very often looks that way in this country. But the dean is a short range pessimist. If democracy is claptrap it is not because there is anything wrong with the idea of democracy or representative government, but there is something wrong with the rank and file of people who make up the nation. If the government is claptrap it is not because of the form of government, but because of the low level of intelligence. More money for schools, and churches, teachers and preachers, books and education, and less for powder and battleships—and government "of, by, and for the people" will not be claptrap.

IDEAS TAKE TIME

A Kansas City educator tells us that if we have an advanced idea we must expect to live 500 years if we hope to see the idea accepted by the rank and file. When Copernicus, a very smart Pole with a Latin name, told his fellows that the earth moved around the sun, they gave him a good laugh. Folks laughed for generations. Of course they thought that Copernicus, whose real name was Kappernik, was a little off in the top story. Now, when somebody tells us the earth doesn't move around the sun we think he is crazy. The way people hold to what they think is truth after the so-called truth has been exploded, often makes this a rather sorry world.

800 MILES AN HOUR

Arno Boerner, Dresden, Germany, has invented a new motor which he thinks will send an airplane 800 miles an hour. It is so powerful that an oversize propeller can be used. The plane can be lifted far and fast above storms, and in the clear air of upper levels makes unbelievable speed. Eight hundred miles an hour would mean a flight from Europe to America in four or five hours.

We of the earth are not quite ready for that sort of thing. From time to time we are reminded that the soul and mind of the average man are not up to the far reaches of inventive genius. We don't quite know what to do with our amazing mechanical progress.

The Daybook

OF A

New Yorker

By

Burton Rascoe

NEW YORK, Oct. 28.—"There was a terrible hubbub on the back platform of the Third Avenue elevated train the other night," said my friend, the east side physician. "So I ambled back to investigate. It was the funniest sight ever. And yet it was pathetic as the Dickens. A kid about eight was the center of attraction. He had a goldfish bowl rammed down over his head, clamped there irrevocably, it seemed. And atop this horror sat sedately his checked hat. His mother, angry and indignant, explained she was taking him to the doctor's. She said he'd been naughty enough; she wasn't going to let him gallivant around without his hat and get wrong ideas. I guess she was too mad to sacrifice the bowl by shattering it, and so save herself the trip and the indignity. She was sore clean through and son her finer feelings weren't suffering. But that kid! My friend laughed till the tears came. 'It was New York's funniest sight of the day!'"

It is always surprising to me, the way in which seasoned dramatists hammer in their points until it would seem the plays are written for morons. The other night I sat through a drama called "Hidden," a drama which exposed, with all the subtleties of a freight train, the leech of a blond for her brunette sister's husband. Even the dullards in the audience were aware at the end of the first act, what went forward; why I pretended to hate Nicky, and why she tried to set Ellen against him. But none of the characters seemed to have the slightest notion what was going on. They were represented as New York's finest—sophisticated, elegant. They dressed for dinner without being self-conscious, they went to the opera, they had a performance in addition to an unseen cook. It is to be supposed, then that they were familiar with the psychiatric patter of the day, but they were certainly awfully dumb about the situation. Another point that struck me as extremely odd about the piece was this. While the heroine was continually referring to herself, in all modesty, as "an intellectual," no evidence of her gifts was offered save that, on one occasion, she delivered a most indifferent speech over the radio. Can it be that Mr. William Hurlbut, who wrote "Hidden," thinks of Baby's Bod-time Hour in the same breath with the Round Table at the Algonquin?

Enveloped in a shattering casing of tangerine hue, comes this pulse stirring message from the headquarters of Texas Guinan. "Texas Guinan, Unconquered Queen of Broadway, takes extreme pleasure in announcing to her legion of friends the opening of Texas Guinan's Century Club, on the lower floor of the Century Theatre building, Sixty-second street and Central Park West, in New York on Friday evening, October the seventh. 'Inaugurating a new era in Gotham's night life, a three ring miniature circus consisting of Mirth Meriment, Revelry and Abandon (O come, come, Tex!) Miss Guinan will be assisted by her Galaxy of beautiful merry-makers, the most adorable mob of Pulchritude ever assembled. Attend the triumphant return of her majesty, the Regent of Revelry!'"

Having read the above, I called, "Boy, the old carpet slippers!" I stoked my pipe, turned on the radio, and murmured "Pfu!" to the fireplace, which smokes.

KELLYGRAMS

WHEN SERVICE BECOMES A NUISANCE

Service can become a nuisance. I hate to be brushed off in washrooms or to have a boy bring towels to me when I could just as well reach for them myself. I find myself irritated when I enter a store or hotel to have an abled-bodied man in elaborate livery pompously open the door for me with a much pomp as if I were a returning hero, even though he perhaps surmises that I know I'm not.

Bell boys annoy me, when, as I come into a hotel, one of them, acting under orders, rushes up to take my grip. Why should those of us who have been taught to wait on our selves at home have our characters undermined by being treated as pampered pets in hotels. Just yesterday I saw a fat man employ a thin, undersized little boy to carry a suitcase almost as large as the boy. What the fat man evidently needed to restore a girlish figure would have been regularly to carry both the boy and the suitcase.

On the other hand, I have seen powerfully-built men beckon to porters at railway stations to carry luggage not much heavier than a woman's handbag. Of course, this isn't because a man is burdened by the weight, but because it makes him feel important to have a redcap working for him. I even know a man who went on a long canoe trip and had the chance of his life to reduce his waistline, but hired a guide to do all the delightful paddling.

I find myself avoiding restaurants where girls are employed to check hats and help strong men on with their overcoats. Why must I have the assistance of a girl, who is obliged to work hard-

THE BATTLE OF BUNKUM HILL

Living and Loving

BY MRS. VIRGINIA LEE

Should She Confess?

Should a girl tell her fiancé of her past, when she has made the mistake (for women are pardonable) of having been married before? Would he tell her of his past blunders, and would either have a right to condemn the other when all is past and repented of?

I do wonder what my readers think of this single standard question. Here is the girl's letter:

"Dear Mrs. Virginia Lee: My problem has made me feel so bad that I have to confide in someone. To begin with, I am a girl 21. And now I am in love, and I know my love has been returned. I was once married, and I would like to marry him. But what can I do? Three or four years ago I started to run around and what people call running wild. I met a certain fellow that attracted me so. I knew he had a bad reputation, but as you know you cannot tell any girl who thinks there is no one that could do her any harm to a person. He told me he liked me and wanted me to be his girl, but would not consider marriage. I, like a fool, believed every word he said, so you know what happened. I never made a fool of myself after that."

"Now, after three years I have met a fellow that I know I feel so different towards. Shall I tell him of the past, or shall I not say anything? I have not seen the fellow for several years, but I am worried to death that my friend may find out sometime, and I don't know what he would say. I am afraid if I told him I am a pure girl and it breaks my heart to have to let him know anything else. He has asked me several times when I will marry him, but I told him I would like to study it over. Now I am leaving everything in your hands."

ANXIOUS.

If he had had a similar experience would he tell you? If you can forget it yourself and not let the thought of it make you miserable in your married life, I would say, don't tell him. You were a child and there is no use punishing yourself unnecessarily. If you cannot, why tell him, and if he is broadminded and understanding he will feel as I do, that it is past and done and you are a brave girl to tell and he will love you all the more.

"My Dear Mrs. Lee: I am engaged to a fellow that I have not known for very long. Now he is in another town and has been for some time. I seldom hear from him and I have written the last letter. Would it be profitable for me to write and ask what is the matter?"

WONDERING.

Certainly write again and ask him what is the matter. When you are planning marriage with a man you certainly should know whether his affections are cooling or if his failure to write is merely lack of time and inclination. So many people hate to write letters even to those they love best.

MENU HINT

Many people like to start a dinner with soup and it's a good habit. Strictly speaking, the bouillon cup is used to serve soup at luncheon, the soup plate at a dinner. But in one's own home it is not necessary to be so particular. Serve the soup in any way that is most convenient.

Today's Recipes

Vegetable Soup (without stock) —One-third cup carrots, one-third cup turnips, one-half cup celery, one and one-half cups potatoes one quart of water, five tablespoons butter, one-half tablespoon finely chopped parsley, salt and pepper, one-half carrot, wash and pare half a turnip and potatoes. Wash and scrape celery and cut vegetables in cubes of uniform size. Cut onions in thin slices. Mix vegetables (except potatoes) and cook ten minutes in four tablespoons butter, stirring constantly. Add potatoes, cover and cook two minutes. Add water and boil one hour, or until vegetables are soft. Season to taste with salt and pepper, add remaining butter and chopped parsley.

Persian Cabbage —One large cabbage, one pound hamburger steak, one-half dozen small onions, one cup cooked rice. Remove cabbage leaves carefully, wilt in warm water or scald so they will not break. Cut off part of center stem if too thick. Mix together steak, onion and rice. Place heaping tablespoon of mixture on each cabbage leaf, fold up and fasten with toothpicks. Place all in one kettle with a little water and cook slowly one hour. Serve plain or with sauce of vinegar and butter, if desired.

Timbale is a French word meaning cup shaped.

Mock Angel Food
(Mrs. Mary Morton's Daily Tested Recipe.)

One cup granulated sugar, one cake flour, three teaspoons baking powder, one cup scalded milk, two egg whites, flavoring. Sift flour, sugar and baking powder four times. Pour over the dry ingredients the hot, scalded milk, mix thoroughly, add flavoring. Cut and fold in the stiffly beaten egg whites. Turn into an ungreased angel cake pan and bake in a moderate oven forty-five minutes. This is better twenty-four hours after it is baked.

Just then a shaft of moonlight came slanting through the trees and fell full on Mrs. Flittermouse, and Peter scarcely heard her last words, so interested was he in studying his companion.

"I can guess how you got the last half of your name," chuckled the Boy. "You do look like a mouse, that's a fact. Your eyes are as bright and your nose as pointed. But, on the other hand, your tail is not nearly as long. In fact, 'tis scarcely a tail at all; and your ears are big, while Mousie's are tiny. Gracious! What is that you wear on your nose? A ruffle? No mouse I ever saw wore anything like it!"

"'Tis a fold of skin, my boy, but 'tis all the better to smell with," squeaked Mrs. Flittermouse, and grinned at Peter, showing a whole mouthful of sharp teeth as white as snow.

Behind The Scenes In Washington

By CHARLES F. STEWART

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—The "west" is a good deal sorer and madder than the political bosses realized until just now. The fact is, the bosses don't know as much about the country as they flatter themselves they do. The big ones are down-casters, anyway.

Occasionally one of them makes a flying trip west, or even stays awhile, like President Coolidge. The folks are hospitable, and the tourists come back convinced everything's lovely.

It isn't, necessarily. Politeness to the company may be only skin deep.

Western sub-bosses drift into Washington, with ominous reports. The super-bosses don't take them very seriously. They prefer not to, for one thing. For another, the situation right around them looks serene enough. They think the sub-bosses are mere alarmists.

But when the big bosses finally do get scared, they get scared all through. They're getting thoroughly scared now.

That is to say, the "ins" are getting scared.

The "outs" are half scared and half hopeful. If the "west" turns hostile and massacres the "ins"—why, that's great, as far as it goes; so reason the "outs." But suppose, once being in the mood, they turn around then and scalp the "outs" too? The "outs" big bosses aren't quite prepared to congratulate themselves, prematurely, until they know more about that.

War whoops have been heard from out in the direction of the corn belt for quite a while, but the "ins" big bosses said: "It's that same bunch of renegades who acted so ugly four years ago. They took it out in nothing but whooping then. That's as far as they're likely to get with this time."

Or, to quote the "outs": "They didn't help us a bit in 1924. No use in counting on 'em next year."

It's hardly two weeks since both sides were talking that way. Today there's what looks like an excellent prospect that the whole tribe will jump the reservation. It's no longer a matter of mere chronic bad actors. Plenty of pretty respectable chieftains—senators and others whom the eastern bosses wouldn't have thought of—were putting on paint and feathers.

What particularly worries the "ins" bosses is that this, so appears to have started itself, so to speak.

The movement of 1924 was essentially a one-man affair.

Its leader, the late Senator La Follette, had to drag it along after him. You couldn't call an uprising of that kind very enthusiastic. Outside Wisconsin, perhaps, its time simply hadn't come. That was about the size of it. This outbreak looks spontaneous, which is dangerous.

Is it the beginning of a real western revolt? That's what the leaders would like to know.

In the back of their minds, they're as well aware as anybody that the regular old-line parties have ceased to mean anything. On the strict "q. l." they're afraid of a death of a realignment because a realignment naturally would mean a terrific shakeup will do to leaderships.

And that, in turn, explains why the "outs" bosses are about as skeery of the west's behavior as the "ins" leaders are. Momentarily a split in the "ins" ranks might benefit the "outs," but afterward? That's the question.

I Have Said in My Heart

By IDA H. MCGLONE GIBSON

DIVORCE

A saintly rather than human bishop of the Episcopal church is sternly advocating the tightening of that church's law on divorce.

He would have the church absolutely forbid the marriage of any person having a wife or husband living.

Either the good bishop must be a celibate or else he is most happily married, for one can think of no other type of human being that would condemn a person to live with another when by doing so daily existence becomes daily torture.

It is a most inhuman thing to punish two people by sentencing them to a lifetime of daily torture for a mistake made because old Mother Nature cast the glamour of desire before their eyes.

Nature is the most unconscionable tyrant in carrying out her one great law. She has no compunction in having anything to bear that will accomplish her ends.

She blinds the eyes of the poor wights whom propinquity, physical fascination, or chemical magnetism brings to her notice.

Then when the deed is done, when mating or marriage is consummated, she calmly leaves them to make the best they can of a bargain in which neither has the slightest idea of what he or she has really promised.

Not long ago some rash soul—I think it was a woman—suggested that our schools and colleges should put in a course of teaching the requirements of love and marriage, and was soundly berated by the sage educators who, as usual, are afraid to touch on the real human affairs of life.

The sooner our young men and young girls are taught that love and marriage are absolutely two different things, the sooner will we have more happy marriages and fewer divorces.

Goethe remarked in one of his essays that "the beautiful is greater than the good, because the beautiful must contain the good."

In the same way, a successful marriage is a greater thing in life than love, for marriage, while it may contain many other things, must contain love if it would last.

Not the love that Nature spreads—which is three parts personal vanity, three parts propinquity and four parts desire—but the love which many of us call affection—the kind of love that makes one forbearing—the kind of love that makes one interested in the other.

Those in authority in the church are apt to say, "Do thou," thus usurping the prerogative of the Maker of Law Himself. They have not yet learned that the layman also thinks and reasons in this day and age.

Men and women must be taught the responsibilities of marriage instead of being carried to thrilling heights by descriptions of the ecstasies of love.

Just recently a man said to me that he expected there was not a married man living that had not wished at sometime or another that he were free, and in the same week a care-worn woman who was suing for divorce said hesitatingly that many a time she had looked across the breakfast table where her husband was calmly reading his newspaper and wished that he were dead.

To live with a man or woman you hate is committing adultery, even if the union has been blessed by the church and approved by the state.

Memo: Divorce—instead of being impossible—should be obligatory in cases of this sort.

How to Achieve Beauty

By MME. HELENE RUBINSTEIN

How to Keep a Slim Waistline and a Flat Abdomen

Yesterday I spoke about how to keep your shoulder blades in and your chest up, but it would hardly be right to leave you with the upper body right and the lower all wrong. So today I am going to talk about waist line and abdomen—all that section which is bounded on the north by the bust and the south by the hips. I might tell you that this is the most important part of your body, but every time I write about beauty I am tempted to say the same thing—really, every part is the most important because there is no dividing line anywhere.

The section I am discussing today is especially important because it includes the vital organs and they depend so much upon the outer structure to hold them in place that you cannot afford to let yourself droop for the sake of your health. As for beauty angle, I need not tell you how much more beautiful a slim waistline and flat abdomen are than a whole downward sag and protruding stomach.

On the whole a protruding stomach bespeaks a lazy mind or indifference to beauty. For the woman who allows herself to go that way, or even who depends altogether upon tight corsets to keep her in, hasn't enough interest in life to try to be completely beautiful. Even a mother should have a flat abdomen if she has had proper care after her child was born and did not get up too soon. That phase should be considered very carefully during convalescence.

Torchlight Parade Precedes Big Gridiron Tilt

CENTRAL PREPARES TO WITHER WITHROW WITH PEP MEETING

Bonfire And Talks Conclude Rally Thursday Night

Familiar scenes of former years were re-enacted on a much larger scale by the student body of Central High School on the eve of the Xenia-Withrow football game Thursday night, indicating that the old "hurray" spirit is still existent at the E. Church St. institution.

It was one of the most enthusiastic demonstrations of high school spirit in the history of the school, starting off with a long torchlight parade through the business section of the city in which more than 600 boys and girls participated, and winding up with a pep meeting around a huge bonfire in front of Cox Memorial Athletic Field.

Students assembled in front of the Central High building at 6:45. They had supplied themselves with noise-making contrivances, including tin cans, horns, whistles or what have you. Red and green torches were distributed and banners were also in evidence.

Forming in single file, the students marched, snake fashion, through the business district. The parade was led by Peter Shagin, motorcycle policeman, who assisted in clearing traffic, followed by John Prugh, senior president and a drum corps, headed by William B. McCallister, student, arrayed in a stiff hat.

The parade wended its way to Church St., turned south on Detroit St., to Second St., west on Second to West St., north to Main St., east to Collier St., and thence to the athletic field, where a huge bonfire awaited the marchers.

Parents of students attended the bonfire meeting and hundreds of students and townspeople were present.

A speaker's platform was erected and the assemblage indulged in an old-fashioned rally. Cheer leaders led the populace in football yells. Senior members of the football squad were called upon for brief talks, Captain Bob Morton responding on behalf of the team.

Short talks were also made by Coach Victor Kolb, Assistant Coach Glen Patterson, Superintendent H. C. Pendry and J. J. Stout, member of the city school board. The meeting broke up about 8:30 and the consensus of opinion was that Xenia would avenge a 7 to 0 defeat last season by trouncing Withrow High Friday afternoon.

Bouquets were tossed at the Police Department and Fire Department by school officials for the cooperation of these departments in making the demonstration a success. Two policemen were stationed at Main and Detroit Sts. to clear traffic and help preserve the unity of the parade and a fireman had been assigned to extinguish the huge bonfire after it had served its purpose.

HOME GRIDDERS TO SEE COLLEGE GAME

Members of the football squad of the O. S. and S. O. Home will be guests of Am Le Voiture, No. 15, Columbus, and Greene County Voiture, No. 140, Forty and Eight Society, at the Ohio State-Chicago football game at Columbus Saturday afternoon.

The trip is being given the Home gridgers as a reward for victories on the gridiron this season. The Home defeated Cedarville High last week 13 to 0.

A personally conducted tour of the Ohio State University campus and the huge stadium and dinner at Ohio Union will be features of the trip.

Greene County Voiture will furnish automobiles for the trip.

BEAVER TEAM LOSES TO HOME GRIDDERS

O. S. and S. O. Home football eleven continued its winning ways by defeating Beaver Creek High School 13 to 6 in a close contest on the Beaver gridiron Friday afternoon. This makes two victories in a row for the Home boys.

Coach Insley's team has no regularly scheduled game for next week but the following week-end will play the strong Parker High school team from Dayton on the Home gridiron.

VICTOR HOPING FOR VICTORY

HEAD COACH VIC KOLB.

Confidence in a victory for his proteges over Withrow High gridgers from Cincinnati Friday was expressed by Head Coach Victor Kolb shortly before the game.

INDEPENDENTS TO PRACTICE SUNDAY

Organization of an independent football team in Xenia, composed of ex-high school athletes, was effected at a meeting at Hustmyer's billiard parlors Thursday night.

An opening game has been arranged for Sunday afternoon, November 6, with the T. and P. Clean.

BOWLING

The Downtown Country Club strengthened its hold on second place in the City League by winning three straight games from Chrysler Motors in a league match Thursday night. Swadner led the losers and Frame topped the winners. Box score:

ELKS' CARNIVAL TO HAVE "KIDDIES DAY" AT CLUB SATURDAY

Saturday will be "Kiddies Day" at the Elks' Club. The Elks' Club, Second and Whiteman Sts. Doors of the club will be opened at 2:30 for the young guests. Boys and girls are asked to attend masked. Children under twelve will be admitted free. Prizes will be offered for costumes, including the best-looking, most comical, and best dressed couple. A good time is assured the youngsters and orchestra music will be furnished during the afternoon. Crowds fill the club each night of the Elks' Carnival. Prizes are given away, offered by Xenia business houses, and dancing is attracting hundreds to the celebration nightly.

BIJOU INSTALLS MARQUEE AT DOOR

Work of installing a new marquee at the Bijou Theater, Green St., was completed Friday afternoon and the improvement adds much to the exterior appearance of the movie house, which was recently re-modelled throughout. The marquee was installed by the Frank B. Scott Tin Shop, W. Main St., the same firm that installed the metal ceiling in the theater recently. The extension is of metallic composition and will be lighted along the underneath edge. The marquee measures twenty by seven feet. The familiar Bijou sign will remain in place over the marquee.

Twenty Years '07 - Ago - '27

The police chief has arranged for an extra force of police to patrol the streets Halloween night. Mr. Vanderpool is back home after a trip on which he bought holiday stock for his store. The men's league of the Presbyterian Church will hold its first meeting of the year this week. Mr. George Kershner returned home from Hutchinson, Kan., where he has been spending a couple of weeks on a visit. The Xenia wrecking crew was called out by the derailment of seven cars at Brooksville.

FARMER WOMAN IN OKLAHOMA

Praises Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Because It Gave Her Health and Strength

In a sunny pasture in Oklahoma, a herd of sleek cows was grazing. They made a pretty picture. But the thin woman in the blue checked apron sighed as she looked at them. She was tired of cows, tired of her tedious work in the dairy. She was tired of cooking for a household of boards, besides, a caring for her own family. The burdens of life seemed too heavy for her failing health. She had lost confidence in herself.

One day she began taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and her general health began to improve. She took it faithfully. Now she can do her work without any trouble, sleeps well and is no longer blue and tired.

This woman, Mrs. Cora Short, R. 3, Box 357, Oklahoma City, Okla., writes: "Everybody now says: 'Mrs. Short, what are you doing to yourself?' I weigh 135 and my weight before I took it was 115. I have taken seven bottles of the Vegetable Compound."

Are you on the Sunlit Road to Better Health?

GOLDEN OCTOBER IS ABOUT GONE

Then look out for the first November snow squall! If your coal cellar is not full you'd better hustle and get the coal rolling in. When the snowflakes fly everybody seems to want coal at once and somebody has to wait. Be wise—get yours in now before the cold snap comes. Farm Notes

FARM RELIEF

Agricultural industry. These leaders were skeptical of the promise made that the measure would benefit co-operatives and thought, rather, that it might materially hamper their growth and development. "In talking over the matter of farm relief we are discussing a purely economic problem," says Mr. Lincoln. "Yet farm relief—much as the tariff has been at times—has become too much of a political issue, and the real meat of the question is bogged by political maneuvering. This is true among some farm leaders as well as among many politicians."

Ohio farmers are not unaware of the disparity between agriculture and industry. They recognize that the standard of farm living has increased greatly, but they recognize also that it has not kept pace with the general level. It is said, Ohio farm leaders have been studying farm relief for some time in the hope of working out some plan which would secure relief for all through overcoming the objections raised in the past.

The features which are believed of particular importance in any plan which hopes to gain the support of Ohio farmers are that co-operative organizations be adequately protected, and that the tariff be so adjusted that any plan applying on wheat or other grains must furnish equal protection to our own producers of poultry and livestock products which consume these grains. In the opinion of farm bureau leaders.

NEW YORK.—At least one legionnaire appreciates the quality of "good old corn," as compared with French bonded liquors. He is Dave Chapman, Nebraskan, arriving with the rear guard of the returning second A. E. P. Chapman turned down drinks in Paris. "Buddy," he said at the gangplank, "I wouldn't spend my money for the stuff they sell over there. I'm saving it until I return home where I can get a real drink of corn."

PAINTERSVILLE

The all day meeting which was held at the church Thursday was reported a very interesting meeting, but was not largely attended. Friends and relatives were sorry to hear of the death of Mr. Aaron Devoe who passed away at his home here Wednesday morning after an illness of several months. The widow, Mrs. Ruth Devoe, wishes to thank her friends and neighbors for their kind sympathy during the illness and death of her husband. Mrs. Jane Thomas, of Jamestown, and Mrs. Rudd, of Pt. William, remained a few days with Mrs. Devoe.

Mrs. Lela Caraway and little granddaughter, Louise Franklin, spent Sunday with Edd Caraway and family, of Bowersville. Will Smith, of Spring Valley and Sam Franklin were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Faulkner Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. Isiah Mason spent Sunday with Delma Thomas and family, of White Chappel. Mr. and Mrs. Edd Ashmore and family spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Rhodes, of near Sabina. Miss Louisa Fawcett and Mr. Sherman Fawcett spent Sunday with Morris Fawcett and family, of Dayton. Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Pickering and family spent Friday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Kaiter, of Dayton. Mr. and Mrs. Paul Fawcett had as their Sunday guests, Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Quigley and children, Leonard and Louise, Mrs. Anna Quigley and Mr. Johnnie Patch, all of Martinsville. Evening callers were Mr. and Mrs. Hansel Fawcett, of Dayton and Roy Bone and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Lindy Linton and family motored to Dayton, Thursday, to see Ben Hur. Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Bales gave a family dinner Sunday at their home, honoring their son and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Bales, of Xenia, who were recently married. Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Jess Peterson and daughter, Wilmina and son Clarence, Mr. and Mrs. John Beason and daughters, Erbia, Ruth, Mary, Phyllis, and son, Clarence, of near Xenia; Mr. and Mrs. Howard Pickering and daughter, Kathryn, of Pt. William; Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Bales and daughter, Lena and son Howard Bales. Mrs. Herman Agnor and daughter.

Lesson No. 2

Question: Why do underweight children need and realize so much benefit from emulsified cod-liver oil?

Answer: Because it provides a vitamin-rich food that nourishes efficiently and helps thin children put on weight. It's known world wide as SCOTT'S EMULSION

Radiolas

DESIGNED by the same engineers who planned the great broadcasting stations.

BUILT by the world's greatest electrical manufacturers—General Electric and Westinghouse.
CHOSEN by Victor and Brunswick for exclusive use in their de luxe instruments.

ACCLAIMED everywhere as the finest achievements of the radio art.

RCA RADIOLA 20 — The biggest value in radio. Many times as selective as the average antenna set. A battery-operated set that may readily be adapted to A. C. operation. Ideal to use with the new RCA Loudspeaker 100-A, or can be adapted for use with the finest of loudspeakers, the famous 104.

Less accessories ..... list $78.00
With Radiotrons ..... list $89.50

RCA RADIOLA 16—The widest musical range ever achieved with one-dial control. A storage battery set of great compactness. For selectivity, sensitivity and tone quality, it sets a new standard for receivers in its price class. It employs the well-known and perfected tuned radio-frequency circuit, with 3 stages of radio-frequency amplification, detector and 2 stages of audio-frequency amplification. By use of socket power devices it can be adapted for A. C. operation. The cabinet is finished in mahogany.

Less accessories ..... list $69.50
With Radiotrons ..... list $82.75

RCA RADIOLA 17—Operates directly from the electric light circuit. This year's outstanding achievement in the radio art. The culmination of years of research to produce, for a moderate price, a receiver completely A. C. operated. Employs the new RCA alternating tubes. Tuned with one knob. The entire set and power unit self-contained in a mahogany finished cabinet.

Less accessories ..... list $130.00
With Radiotrons ..... list $157.50

TO RELIEVE STOMACH DILATION, GAS

Dilation of the stomach usually arises because excess stomach acid causes food to ferment and form sour gases which are responsible for those unpleasant sensations of swelling and fullness, often very painful.

To avoid and relieve stomach dilation take a tablet of "Pape's Diapepsin" after meals or when pain is felt. "Pape's Diapepsin" neutralizes acidity and prevents the formation of wind, heartburn and flatulence, and insures healthy, painless digestion.

Druggists everywhere sell
"Pape's Diapepsin" at 60 cents a package—not much to pay for complete freedom from digestive pain and stomach troubles, is it? Better get your package of "Pape's Diapepsin" today.

TO SHOW PASSION PLAY MOVIES HERE

Mrs. A. L. Oglesbee, chairman of Division Ten, Ladies Aid Society,
First M. E. Church, has arranged for the presentation of the pictures of the Oberammergau Passion Play, at the church, November 21.
Every picture to be shown is made from actual photograph taken in the village of Oberammergau and the film will be accompanied by Dr. A. P. Berry of Chicago, who will give the leading lines of the drama in the exact voice tones of the actors. The pictures have been shown in many leading churches of America and the program is heartily endorsed by pastors.

Proceeds of the entertainment will be used in work of the Ladies Aid Society. Mrs. Oglesbee's committee is composed of Mrs. Thurman Early and Mrs. C. A. Kelbie.

AIRPLANE FACTORY AT WICHITA SPEEDS UP ITS PRODUCTION

WICHITA, Kan., Oct. 24.—The Swallow Airplane factory located here at 21st and Hillside Avenue, has increased its production steady-ly to a point where it is turning out three to four planes a week.
Additional machinery and an increase in floor space are credited with enabling the company to speed up its production.

Like all the airplane manufacturers in Wichita, Swallow has found it difficult to obtain materials.

The company will ship a carload of planes to the Springfield Airways at Springfield, Mass. Another shipment will be delivered to a Muncie, Indiana dealer.

George R. Bassett, general manager of the Swallow company, recently made contracts for 1928 for the delivery of twelve Swallow bi-planes to C. H. Williams, Milwaukee dealer.

Contract for twenty-five ships during the next twelve months was obtained by Swallow from the Southern Airways at Dallas, Texas.
The first of these ships will be delivered in November.

It is expected that within the next few days an order for at least twenty-five planes for Mexican use will be placed here, by a firm representing the Mexican government. Already a Swallow plane has been tried out in Mexico for scout flying.

MONTGOMERY AGAIN MADE PRESIDENT OF CIGARETTE FOES

Dr. J. Knox Montgomery, president of Muskingum College, New Concord, O., was re-elected president of the Anti-Cigarette Alliance of America, at the convention at the First Reformed Church, Thursday afternoon.

All officers, except the recording secretary, were re-elected at the meeting. They are: Dr. D. H. Kress, Washington, D. C., nerve specialist, first vice-president; Dr. Harvey Wiley, former U. S. Health Commissioner, second vice-president; Dr. David Starr Jordan, president of Leland Stanford University, California, third vice-president; Mrs. Fannie Custis, Xenia, recording secretary; Mrs. Carrie L. Flatter, Xenia, executive secretary; Dr. Homer J. Hall, Franklin, Ind., treasurer.

Four new directors were elected: the Rev. S. A. Blessing, West Milton, O.; L. A. Hansen, Tacoma Park, Md.; Mrs. Grace Lewis, Emporia, Kan.; and Melville Dewey, Lake Placid, N. Y.

Mrs. Fannie Custis, Xenia, was appointed local office secretary and Mrs. Flatter was assigned to field work.

Several recommendations for the proposed plan of work for the coming year were adopted at the Thursday afternoon session.

Dr. George Wareham, Storm Lake, Ia., Dr. Montgomery and Mrs. Flatter were speakers at the evening session. Dr. Wareham described the work of the Anti-Cigarette Alliance in Iowa and Dr. Montgomery advanced his theory as to the harmful effects of the cigarette on college students, and gave reasons why he banned cigarettes from the Muskingum campus.

Mrs. Flatter explained the psychological brain chart, showing the effect of cigarette smoking on the brain cells.

The attendance at the convention was not up to expectations and the Friday sessions were abandoned and the convention adjourned Thursday night.

AUTOS COLLIDE ON WILMINGTON PIKE

Occupants of both automobiles escaped injury when a sedan driven by a man named Gallup, Wilmington, crashed into a sedan driven by Charles M. Devoe, Wilmington Pike, at the entrance to the latter's farm home, three and one-half miles southeast of Xenia early Thursday night.

Both machines were traveling in the same direction and the collision occurred as Mr. Devoe was about to turn off the pike into the driveway of his home, after having been to the home of Frank Weaver, a neighbor, to obtain a supply of gasoline.

The Wilmington car swerved off the highway after the crash, struck a tree glancingly, and then upset by the side of the road. Both cars were damaged. Gallup's auto was being driven rapidly and failed to display lights, it was reported.

Devoe is quoted as saying he did not notice the second machine. Devoe's car was towed in to a Xenia garage for repairs while the Wilmington car was taken back to Wilmington by a wrecking car from a garage in that city.

TRACTION BRINGS CHILDREN TO MOVIE

Through the courtesy of Thomas J. Farneding, Dayton, general manager of the Dayton and Xenia Railway Co., in providing free transportation on the interurban traction line, thirty-five children and two matrons of the Greene County Children's Home were enabled to witness the World War benefit motion picture, "Men of Purpose," at the Bijou Theatre Friday afternoon.

The children were guests of Co. L, 14th Infantry, Ohio National Guard, under auspices of which, the film was brought to Xenia.

Friday night two shows will be given at 7 and 9 o'clock and this will be the final opportunity for Xenians to see the authentic reproduction of World War scenes.

PARTITION SOUGHT IN COURT ACTION

Partition of real estate is sought in a suit filed in Common Pleas Court by Douglas Marshall against Alpharetta, Charles, Zetta and Luvenia Marshall.

Plaintiff is a brother of Awilda Marshall, deceased, and has an interest in the property, according to the petition.

A. J. Bright and Deaton, Bodey and Bodey are attorneys for the plaintiff.

NAMED ADMINISTRATRIX

Vernie Lewis has been appointed administratrix of the estate of Alfred E. Lewis, late of Beaver Creek Twp., with bond of $100 in Probate Court.

VALUE ESTATE

Gross value of the estate of the late William H. Rockafeld is placed at $1,170 in Probate Court. Debts, including the cost of administration, amount to $353, leaving a net, market value of $817.

TO BUILD SHELTER HOUSE NEXT SPRING

In answer to the query as to what amount was raised at the Community Picnic held several weeks ago and why construction work on the shelter house in Shawnee Park was not begun this fall, Mrs. Charles A. Kelble, chairman of the building committee announced Friday that the money has been placed in a bank, on interest and now amounts to $384.64.

The building committee recently decided not to start work on the shelter house until spring, when another drive will be made to increase the fund and work then begun.

With a strenuous work-out Thursday and light signal practice this afternoon, Coaches Curtis and Roberts are optimistic over the coming encounter. At 3:30 Friday afternoon alumni and students will meet on the school campus to prime the players for the big event. This demonstration will be followed by a monster parade through the streets of the city in which the boosters will exhibit the "pop" and enthusiasm that will characterize the Saturday tilt.

From the advance sale of tickets it is evident that a large number of "grid lovers" will greet the "Green and White" when they go on the field.

AUTOS DAMAGED

Automobiles owned by Dr. David E. Spahr, Springfield Pike, and Lawrence O. Tiffany, 232 West Third St., was damaged in a collision on the Springfield Pike near Xenia city limits Thursday night at 9:15 o'clock. No one was injured.

Tiffany was driving a coach to

BILIOUS? DON'T BE!

Biliousness is a symptom, not a disease. A sour, sick, belching, gassy stomach gets that way because of neglected constipation. Ordinary laxatives don't seem to help much, because the liver, the stomach, the spleen, and the intestines, all have to be aided. Constipation slows up the function of and interferes even with the brain's activity.

Blackburn's Casca-Royal Pills arouse the liver, tone up the stomach and intestines, stimulate the glandular secretions, in a pleasant, perfect way. When the internal organs function regularly, away goes biliousness, sour stomach, and indigestion.

Have you a throbbing at the temples, a bad taste in the mouth, halitosis (unpleasant breath), sour, bilious stomach, dark rings under the eyes and an irritable, don't-care-languor? Take Blackburn's Casca-Royal Pills. Wake up your ambition and energy and feel good every day. In less than a dozen hours you will be on the "Wellville" road. Forty-five pills—20 cts.—at all drugstores.

AUTO TURNS OVER

Falling asleep at the wheel of his automobile, a man identified as William Cooper, 44 High St., is believed to have escaped injury when the machine overturned and was damaged on Lucas hill on the Dayton Pike at 3:30 o'clock Friday morning, according to a report received by police.

Details of the accident were not learned by police.

UNVEIL MONUMENT

Mrs. Lawrence Shields, E. Second St., and Mr. and Mrs. William Houston Kenyon, New York City, who have been visiting here, left last Monday for Kinney's Corner, at Pennyan, on the border line between New York and Pennsylvania, where they attended the unveiling of a monument to Col. Coates Kinney, author of "Rain on the Roof" and other works.

The monument was erected by the Daughters of the American Revolution of Pennyan.

DENIES STOCK SALE VIOLATION OF LAW

CLEVELAND, Oct. 28.—E. D. Grumney, brother of E. L. Grumney, who was arrested in Columbus Thursday on charges of violating the Blue Sky law, for alleged sale of stock certificates in a "perpetual motion" motor concern, today had made a statement here saying that the Grumney proposition was bona fide and that everything would come out all right.

"Description of our motor as a 'perpetual motion' machine is a misnomer," Grumney said. "We have never used the term in our sales talk. We have been working on the mechanism for nine years. We have never taken any person's money without the understanding that they could have it returned if dissatisfied."

Reports from Columbus yesterday stated that F. L. Grumney had realized approximately $125,000 through sale of stock certificates in the concern.

STATE IDENTIFIES ROBBER AT TRIAL

BUENOS AIRES, Oct. 28.—Trial of Wilbur Hand, Toledo, charged with complicity in the $175,000 robbery of the Commercial Savings Bank of Galion, resumed for the third time, here today, with state's rebuttal witnesses on the stand. The five state witnesses, four of them bank employees, positively identified Harry Zillick as one of the robbers, late Thursday. Zillick, also charged with the robbery, is Hand's chief alibi witness. According to Hand's testimony, he and Zillick were playing golf on the Abyssview links at Toledo at the time of the robbery.

It is expected 3,000 delegates will attend the sessions.DETROIT—Two men, colored, entered a Detroit candy shop and picked out candy to the value of $7 which they ordered saved until they returned to pay for it.
"No, you don't," said the girl clerk who had been watching one of the men stuff boxes under his coat. She called the police. Explaining in police court one of the men said that he wanted the candy as a farewell present for his sweetheart. Both drew jail sentences.

The Theater

Tired of being known as "Mrs. Ben Hecht" Marie Armstrong Hecht, former wife of Ben Hecht, the famous author of "County Bruga" "Humpty-Dumpty", "Garloyles" and other novels, has struck out for herself to achieve personal fame. When she resolved not to exist at the Warner Theater. All of the in the reflected spotlight on her reviews on the New York papers famous former husband, Mrs. Hecht are acclaiming Jolson's work in the piece in which George Jessel formerly starred. "The Jazz Singer" picture is augmented by the Vitaphone, which carefully reproduces Jolson's voice as the singer.

"The Lion and the Mouse" Charles Klein's absorbing drama, which was a stage success several years ago, is to be filmed by Warner Brothers. The Warners have placed it on a special list, which means that it is to be made a feature, or extended run, production.

REVENGE IS SWEET
HACKENSACK, N. J.—Because he was embittered by the policies of roadhouse proprietors who, he declares, have charged him $150,000 in his time, for their hospitality a man told Hackensack police that he had dedicated his life to getting even. He was arrested while passing a bad check on a roadhouse proprietor. Police declare that he has accomplished a dozen similar transactions. They informed him that this method of revenge was illegal and lodged him in the Hackensack jail.

NONSENSE

OH, I'LL ONLY HAVE A CUP O' COFFEE AND A SANDWICH, PLEASE.

Marion Mack, film actress, forced down in plane in Death Valley, is recovering from arduous experience at Los Angeles home.

began work on a three-act play. Peter Glenn, dramatist, assisted her in its preparation and when it was completed, it was immediately accepted by the Messrs. Shubert, for production.

The finished work, "Such Is Life" is being rehearsed for the New York stage, while the author is at work on another play. Mrs. Hecht advised the wives of writers to do some sort of creative work of their own. "For me there is no stopping until I have become a famous playwright, and my first play, "Such Is Life" will, I am sure, bring me near that goal."

One of the most enthusiastic receptions tendered a motion picture premiere in New York was tendered Al Jolson in "The Jazz Singer."

THE GUMPS—

FROM RAGS TO RICHES—UNCLE BIM HAS GIVEN ANDY THE SUM OF $1,000,000,000 TO DRIVE POVERTY AND SUFFERING FROM THE WORLD—BEFORE ANDY REACHES THE BOTTOM OF THE PILE HE WILL HAVE CHANGED EVERY POORHOUSE TO A PALACE AND MOVED THE PEOPLE ON POVERTY STREET TO THE SUNNY SIDE OF EASY STREET—

WHEN I THINK OF WHAT $1,000,000,000 MEANS— I GET WORRIED— IN THE RIGHT HANDS THAT AMOUNT OF MONEY CAN BE A WONDERFUL BLESSING TO HUMANITY— IN THE WRONG HANDS IT WOULD BE A TERRIBLE MEANCE— IF I WAS THE WRONG KIND OF GUY I COULD TAKE THAT MONEY AND BUY UP A EUROPEAN KINGDOM AND START A COUNTRY OF MY OWN— BUT YOU KNOW MIN— I WOULDN'T DOUBLE-CROSS UNCLE BIM— HE'S TRUSTING ME TO MAKE GOOD AND THAT'S WHAT I'M GOING TO DO—

BUT A BUNCH OF COIN LIKE THAT STAGGERS THE IMAGINATION WITH A $1,000,000,000 I COULD BUILD A SPANISH BUNGALOW FOR EVERY FAMILY IN IRELAND AND HAVE ENOUGH LEFT OVER TO ESTABLISH A CHAIN OF GIFT SHOPS ALL OVER SCOTLAND—

I SUPPOSE YOU WERE CRAZY WHEN YOU PROMISED TO TAKE ME FOR BETTER OR WORSE— IN POVERTY AND RICHES YOU NEVER TURNED DOWN A CHANCE TO BUY A GOLD MINE FOR A NICKEL IN YOUR LIFE— I SUPPOSE YOU FEEL BAD WHEN YOU GO DOWN THE STREET AND HEAR PEOPLE SAY THERE GOES THE WIFE OF THE BILLIONAIRE PHILANTHROPIST—

CHAMPION POTATO EATERS WILL MEET AT CHARDON SHOW

CHARDON, O., Oct. 23.—"Bring on another boiler full of mashed spuds," will be the battle cry of the champion potato eaters of Geauga County at the potato show to be held in Burton and Chardon on November 5.

Twenty dollars in cash awaits the men with the largest capacity for Geauga tubers, mashed and seasoned to taste. The time limit on the spud guzzlers is twenty minutes.

Whoever gets away with the biggest mound of churned tubers will be escorted to Cleveland potato show to defend his honors against the world. Rules of the contest adopted by the show committee at Burton and Chardon are: Open to any resident of Geauga County.

Sectional championships will be decided at Chardon and Burton November 5 at noon. County championship to be determined at Burton on the evening of November 5. Unlimited supplies of mashed potatoes prepared with milk and butter and seasoned to individual taste with salt and pepper. Contestants may drink any amount of water, but no other food or drink will be allowed.

Sectional champions will receive $5. County champion will receive $10. The sectional and county champions will be decided before judges to be named later.

Potato kings of Geauga County, men who are shrew enough to coax a yield of 300 bushels of potatoes per acre out of their soil, will be crowned at a banquet in Burton.

Of five men entered in the contest for membership in the Ohio 300 bushel club, three have qualified for the honor—Reno Howard, of Bainbridge and Archie and Howard Newcomb, of Burton. Yields on the farms of Clifford Rossiter and Peter Fritz have not been officially checked by County Agent H. B. Alger, but it is estimated that neither of these crops will qualify for the club.

The champion potato grower and perhaps of the United States, A. C. Ramseyer, of Wayne County, whose yield of 606 bushels per acre was recently harvested will address the potato growers at the Burton banquet.

E. B. Tussing, vegetable specialist of Ohio State University, who began a series of potato selection schools in the county at Chardon Tuesday evening will speak at the banquet.

The Burton banquet is the opening gun in a campaign to enlist every commercial potato grower in Geauga County to get behind the show to be held in Chardon and Burton November 5. Winning exhibits at the county show will compete in the northeastern Ohio potato show in Cleveland, November 14 and 15.

Dr. E. L. Nixon, of the Pennsylvania State college, one of the foremost authorities on potatoes and potato growing has been secured as a judge for the Geauga County shows.

CHAPTER FORTY

Beechy, at the wheel, from time to time flung news of the road over his shoulder. But he did not look around; nor did Juan who sat beside him.

"This first six miles out of Arivaca is the worst piece of the road. After this we can make time."

"Fine!" called John Moore from the back seat.

From time to time Beechy caught the tones of their voices. "He's a dead sport!" he thought admiringly. "Going right along in spite of the way he treated him this morning." And then he fell to wondering anxiously about the man. Juan had brought his message back from Amado. He was getting along without any trouble so far, but with a crew like that aboard you never could tell. He himself should have gone in with him! Joe could take care of Ruth all right.

"This is the Nogales-Tucson road," he called, after a while.

"Oh, yes!" John called back.

Beechy stepped on the throttle and the car raced forward. "This is the Twin Buttes Camp," he announced presently.

The car sped on. "You can see the Mission—San Xavier—ahead there now."

"Oh, yes," called John.

On and on, faster and faster.

"Here's the Sasabe road, where you must have turned that night."

"By Jove! Is it? Let's have a look at it, will you? Slow down a little."

But when Beechy obligingly had done as he was requested John didn't even look at the road. He leaned forward and touched Beechy on the shoulder.

"Listen," he said. "Do you know a good minister?"

The car almost stopped. "A minister!" exclaimed Beechy. "I don't often use them. Good for what?"

"Well," said John Moore, "for marrying people."

"Marrying? Juan, hang on this wheel a second. Beechy turned squarely around and faced the two in the tonneau.

John Moore sat leisurely back again on the seat and his left hand closed over Ruth. Henshaw's for all the world to see.

"You poor idiot," he commented commiseratingly. "What's the matter with you? Haven't you ever heard of people marrying?"

Beechy looked at Ruth, but she only looked at John Moore.

LEGION AUXILIARY PRESIDENT SERVED DURING WORLD WAR

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Oct. 23.—The new national president of the American Legion Auxiliary, Mrs. Irene McIntyre Walbridge, of Petersburg, N. H., served with the Salvation Army on four fronts in the World War. For a year and a half, in company with her sister, she established and maintained huts within the lines with the following divisions: First, Seventh and Forty-Second, and the National Guard of New England, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Ohio and the middle west, as well as the National Army divisions of New York and the Gulf and Pacific States.

Caught under the barrage in the first important engagement of Americans, and 256 days under enemy fire, she twice received the unusual distinction of a personal citation in army orders: "Under fire of high explosive and gas, she established and conducted huts that were noted for their good cheer and hospitality. Her courage and devotion to her voluntary work was a splendid inspiration to the troops." Through regular army

LADY CALLED FATE

BY JOSEPHINE K. LITTLEJOHN

"My Lord!" exploded Beechy. "Are you going to marry a girl who was so damned ornery to you, only this morning, that I've been weeping for you ever since? Are you?"

"I am," said John Moore promptly.

"Oh," said Ruth, "I wasn't really."

Beechy gazed at them. "That beats me! When are you thinking of getting married?"

"Well," said John, "we are leaving on that one o'clock train for New York tonight."

"Oh!" Beechy's high, clear yodel sank to a sigh. "Gosh!" he lamented. "Steve was right! Joe had all the luck! All right, old dear! There must be a minister hiding out some place. I'll find him. I'll get you married all right. I'll make the punch myself! Give me the wheel!"

It was a little after five o'clock when the car drew up at the Santa Rita. John Moore sprang down.

"Listen, Beechy," he said. "We've doped it out. If you'll get the parson and rooms and flowers, we'll go after the license and things. But we'll need your car."

"Secrets from brides, Ruth," said Beechy and drew John Moore a little aside. "What about those fellows who are after you, man?" he asked.

John Moore clapped him on the shoulder and laughed like a boy.

"Aw," he said, "forget them. This is my day, Beechy, my day!"

Beechy surveyed him. "It is!" he said in awestruck tones. "Good Lord, what a pity! You could wreck the bank at Monte Carlo!"

"Why, man alive, I'm going to marry my girl today!"

"Beat it!" said Beechy. "Wait! Whom do you want at your wedding?"

"Ruth declared that, just you and Towser for witnesses. It's a shame that Steve isn't here. But it will be better to get her away."

"Right you are. I'll fix things. Hurry to the courthouse, please."

"Where's a jeweler's shop?"

"At the corner, there. Wait, have you plenty of money?"

"Traveler's checks. But thanks, old man!"

At the corner John Moore dashed into the jeweler's and briefly out again. "He'll wait for us," he said.

"Now, Juan, the courthouse, please."

Down Congress street, while the daylight fled to the mountain peaks at the foot of it and the street lamps gleamed a pathway through the dusk. The two in the rear seat of the car held each other's hand tightly clasped and spoke not at all.

Ruth Henshaw could hear the mad beating of her heart as if it were racing against that stronger, deeper pulse of excitement that throbbed within her.

Down the narrow, twisting side street, lined with low, flat-roofed adobe to the courthouse and the old plaza that had been the heart of the Old Pueblo. In the twilight the shadows came stealing.

"This is an old town," said Ruth dreamily. "Spanish governors lived on that corner two hundred years ago."

John Moore made her pause just then. Half way up the courthouse walk. "Did they?" he murmured.

"See, the first stars are coming out; I watched three nights ago alone, and now we are going in to get a marriage license, you and I."

Back in the throng of cars, moving eastward up Congress street. It was dark now and John Moore moved nearer. "They are going home, all we, my darlings."

His tenderness was a part of that throbbing excitement. She answered him slowly. "Where is your home?"

"I haven't had one since I was nine until tonight! It's wherever I am going with you! Just at this particular moment it's that department store you spoke of—to outfit our two naves—in-the-woods selves!"

"I don't need many things," said Ruth more quickly.

"You don't want them? I hoped you'd want lots of things. You see I haven't had an interesting career or anything. I'm not the kind of a mining engineer they write books about. I've just stuck in an office most of the time. The only thing I seemed to do decently was to make a little money. I've been hoping you might like it. That I could buy things for you; that you'd like to spend it; I don't know just what I hoped."

But Ruth knew, and at his need the throbbing excitement died away for a moment. "Oh," she cried, "it was only that it didn't matter if you had no money at all! And you haven't really! It's all mine! Because, don't you see? All these years you've been making it for me!"

"You darling!" said John unsteadily. "What are we stopping here for, in the light?"

"It's the shop."
